Senate Approves Dairy Compact Legislation 44-6

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As had been expected, the state Senate on Wednesday approved (44-6) legislation authorizing Pennsylvania to join the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact.

That's one step toward Pennsylvania being included in the Compact.

There are several more that would need to be taken.

The state House of Representatives also has to approve it. Gov. Tom Ridge would then have to sign it into law. The federal Legislature would have to see fit to pass legislation expanding the Compact to include additional states, and also reauthorize the Compact to extend beyond its scheduled Oct. 1 termination.

The proposed state Compact legislation has been sent to the state House of Representatives, where leadership has to decide the schedule and track it will take.

The state House of Representatives already has had two versions of Compact legislation proposed by its members. Those proposed pieces of legislation are under review by the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, headed by state Rep. Raymond Bunt.

During a House Ag Committee hearing and subsequent, if not related, meetings, it has become obvious that sides have been drawn on the issue.

Generally, national and regional producer and milk marketing cooperatives, as well as farm policy organizations have been promoting the creation of a Compact to set prices for farmers and consumers.

Opposing are smaller cooperatives, indepedent producers and independent dairy producers, as well as food manufacturers.

The House versions are similar to the version sponsored by Sen. Roger Madigan.

While the Senate version has been sent to the House, no further action should be expected until at least the first week of May, when the House resumes session.

Partnership To Protect Watershed Demonstrates Work At Farm

BIRD IN HAND (Lancaster Co.) — One project may prove that long-term, multi-agency efforts to bring together environmental protection groups and farmers can pay off.

On Earth Day — Thursday this week — a group of about 40 partners working to enhance the aquatic and overall environmental restoration of the Pequea-Mill Creek watershed met on the Leroy Miller farm north of Bird In Hand to see stream habitat improvement take place.

State environmental protection agencies, restoration specialists, contributors to the Pequea-Mill Creek project, legislators, and agri-industry representatives toured the work being done to repair and restore the Muddy Run, a tributary to the Mill Creek, on the Miller farm.

The farm, according to David Wise, program biologist with the Ducks Unlimited and Chesapeake

Beef Producers Honor Several, Name Queen

JINNY WILT
Adams Co. Correspondent

BONNEAUVILLE (Adams Co.) — The Adams County Beef Producers honored several people, presented $10,000 for a county ag center, and named a 1999 queen and ambassador during the 23rd annual Beef Ball and bull parade.

At the event held at the Bonneauville Fire Hall, the group presented Achievement Awards of $600 each to:

• Allyson Anne Cole, senior at Littlestown High School, who has been accepted at the University of Wyoming to major in agricultural education. She is the Pennsylvania FFA state reporter and a junior member of the Texas Longhorn Breeders Association of America.

• Wayne Flickinger, sophomore at Iowa State University majoring in agricultural engineering. Wayne has a small herd of Limousins

Adams County Beef Producers named a queen, ambassador, and alternate recently. Serving as alternate, left, is Andrew Seymore of York Springs. Janel Keller, student at Gettysburg High School, is queen, and B.J. Wagner of Orrtanna, also a student at Gettysburg High School, is ambassador. Keller and Wagner will serve as a team representing the beef producers and Seymore will fill in if either of the other two are unavailable.

Poultry Industry Celebrates New Beginning

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — More than 1,000 supporters from 26 states showed up at the Spring Poultry Banquet at the Lancaster Host Resort on Tuesday evening. The $100-a-plate dinner serves as an annual fundraiser for the poultry industry.

The banquet also celebrated the poultry industry's new collaborative effort with the PennAg Industries Association.

Last year, the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation merged with PennAg to provide better and more efficent use of dues dollars and a more united association. Under Penn Ag's umbrella, the Poultry Council addresses the needs of the industry.

PennAg Poultry Council leaders Jim Adams, chairman; Jack Conrad, president; and Jim Shirk, assistant vice president, shared how the alliance between the Poultry Council and PennAg Industries strengthens the organization and marks a new beginning to promote and enhance the poultry industry in Pennsylvania.

Conrad said that the organization will work to be an effective force at both state and national levels. He said, "We can be a leader on Capitol Hill to make a difference in agriculture."

Shirk explained that the basic structure of the Poultry Council remains the same as it had been with the Federation. The council will push for egg and poultry research, address health and safety issues, and plan special events promoting the poultry industry.

PennAg is the oldest agribusiness trade association in the U.S., according to a spokesperson for the industry. Established in 1878, the association addressed the concerns of local millers. Later the association served as a feed industry lobbying group.

To meet the challenges of the changing agricultural climate, the association changed its name several times and adapted new policies. The Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association representing pesticide and fertilizer dealers became part of PennAg in 1997.

Last year, the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation merged with

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Grange on Monday highlighted its annual Grange Day celebration and legislative luncheon program at the Ramada Inn in Harrisburg with a rally of supporters for state legislation to enable potential inclusion in the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact.

The rally was a pre-luncheon press conference about the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact and the need for it.

All participating in the conference were in full support of Pennsylvania adopting legislation to join the Compact.

The rally was part of an all-day activities event featuring luncheon

ATTENTION DAIRYMEN!
Do you need to:
- Lower Somatic Cell Count?
- Improve breeding efficiency?
- Stimulate appetite?
- Increase milk production?

BOVINE I from Nu-Health is for you!

This unique blend of micronutrients and vitamins has many dairymen talking...

"After using Bovine I for only 30 days, I saw a 23% drop in Somatic Cell Count, an increase in milk production, and most importantly heat cycles were almost immediately more detectable."

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Apr 21, 1999

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were slightly higher on spillover strength from yesterday and overnight export sales and reported donation tenders. Corn bids were steady to slightly higher on wet weather and planting delays. Soybean bids slightly lower on dry weather forecasts and lack of foreign sales. Wheat 1 to 10 cents higher. Corn steady to 2 cents higher. Sorghum steady. Soybeans 1 to 5 cents lower. USDA's Donation tender for 298,000 tonnes of hard red winter wheat, 213,400 tonnes of soft red winter wheat, and 113,200 tonnes hard red spring wheat for May/July, boosted wheat bids. Chile's overnight purchase of soft white and hard red winter wheats also added strength to cash bids. Limiting gains were reports of rain in China's winter wheat areas and the beginning of Texas harvest. Corn bids were mostly steady with some strength noted due to continued wet conditions in the Cornbelt areas which are causing planting delays. Forecasts are calling for drier weather in the Midwest areas next week and limiting gains. Declines were made in soybean bids as the dry weather forecast for Midwest areas next week and slow farmer selling undermined bids. Export orders remain nil for soybeans.

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With Almanac

APRIL 26-MAY 2, 1999

FULL PINK MOON, APRIL 30.

CANNONBALL EXPRESS

April 30 marks the 99th anniversary of the crash of the Cannonball Express in 1900 "Casey" Jones (who was born John Luther Jones in Kentucky in 1863) took his nickname from Cayce, Kentucky, where he had a job at the age of 17 as a telegraph operator In 1888, he began working for the Illinois Central Railroad as a fireman and soon was promoted to locomotive engineer. He took the dangerous Cannonball Express run from Memphis, Tennessee, to Canton, Mississippi, but met with disaster when his speeding locomotive confronted a stationary freight train on the tracks In 1903, the song "Casey Jones" began its popularity

Ever' time de trains pass, I wants to go somewhere.

– Langston Hughes

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Graft fruit trees now. Prune vines or replant.

CORIANDER ASPARAGUS

2 pounds fresh asparagus
3/4 cup (1-1/2 sticks) unsalted butter
1 tablespoon ground coriander juice of 1 fresh lemon
salt and pepper, to taste

Steam the asparagus until just tender. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan, melt the butter, then add the coriander and lemon juice. Heat until just hot and serve over the asparagus, with seasonings

Makes 8 servings.

The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

Spring is both father and mother to us, and he who does not sow will not reap.

A wet spring, a dry harvest.

April and May are the keys of the year.

Dry May brings nothing.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow

Earth Day, Give Credit Where Credit Is Due

All across America this week, the people are celebrating Earth Day with will climax in a national event on April 22-23 on the National Mall in Washington, D.C. This year, more than 50 partner organizations and agencies will participate. The celebration highlights innovative environmental practices and a public rededication to conserve and protect the approximately one billion acres of land used in the United States to produce food, natural fiber, and many other products.

The agricultural community has made great strides in the cleanup and protection of our streams, for example. As reported last week, EPA's own statistics show that 96 percent of the nation's rivers and streams are not impaired by agriculture

From a recent national survey, it was reported that 99 percent of producers and ranchers are really concerned about the environment. As we approach this 1999 Ag-Earth Celebration, the agriculture community is rededicated to the growing partnerships between agriculture and the environment We want to build on the environmental successes and innovative practices that that have worked to conserve our natural resources and provide the world with an abundant, reliable and affordable supply of food, natural fiber, and other agriculture products

We think agriculture should get more credit for successful efforts to save the environment To often, agriculture is blamed for problems that really start in the city. Non-point pollution has become the buzzwords to blame agriculture This finger-pointing comes in spite of the fact that half of the modern sewage treatment plants still flush half of the nitrogen and phosphate from human wastes into our streams Earth Day is a good time to pay tribute to agriculture's environmental success story. It's a good time to give credit where credit is due

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Look At Alternatives

According to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, there are many different ways to farm How much capital you will need and what you will need it for will be determined in part by the style of farming you choose

The dairy industry is changing These changes may dictate a need for farmers to re-examine the way they do business The traditional methods of the past may not be appropriate for the present or for the future So, explore the options, push the pencil, consider the pros and cons of the various options and choose a style that fit you

This is called business planning The farms that will survive in the future will be the ones that have donne adequate business planning If you do not know how to develop a business plan, go to your local book store a buy a basic book on business planning and attend meetings on the subject The business plan is your road map for the future

To Do A Business Plan

A business plan helps you to determine your future It is a systematic analysis of your business Your business plan helps you to focus on the things you need to do in order to stay in business

A good business plan looks at your industry, markets, competitors, the things you do best, financial information, preparing for change and thinking strategically

To help Pennsylvania dairy farmers develop business plans, the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders have developed a Business Planning Assistance Program (BPAP) BPAP grants up to $1,500 will be made available to eligible producers Participants must be existing or start up dairy farms in Pennsylvania and accepted into the program

Grant moneys may be used only to cover the costs of having an independent third party provide the professional services necessary to assist the farmer evaluating the dairy farm business. Applicants are required to contribute at least 25 per cent of the total project costs

Farmers interested in the BPAP should contact Alan Bair at 777 West Harrisburg Pike, Middletown PA 17057 or calling 717-948-6328

Avoid Soil To Compaction

According to Dr Doug Beegle, Penn State Extension Soil Scientist, when a soil is compacted by a heavy load, such as a manure spreader, the structure of the soil is destroyed

The compaction decreases the amount of pore space in the soil Adequate pore space is important for air, water and nutrient movement in the soil It is also important for root growth A 10 per cent reduction in pore space can result in a 4 times increase in root resistance

This means the plant roots will not be able to penetrate the soil to receive water and nutrients needed for optimum growth The major contributors to soil compaction are heavy loads, like manure spreaders, on wet soils As manure storages become more popular, the period of time used to spread manure becomes shorter and equipment gets bigger

The two most popular times of year to spread manure is fall and early spring These are also times when the soils are most often wet Compaction may be minimized in several ways Avoid driving heavy loads on wet soils Spread out the weight as much as possible with multiple axles and tires. Use radial tires. Do not overload when soils are wet

April 25, 1999

Background Scripture:
John 8:12-59
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 51:1-9

A little boy who passed his neighbor on the sidewalk. "I'm running away from home!" a little boy told his neighbor as he sped off down the block. Minutes later the neighbor saw him coming up from the opposite direction. As he passed the neighbor, he said again, "I'm running away from home!" Soon the boy was seen to be approaching again and this time the neighbor stopped him, "If you're running away from home, why do you continue to run around the block." Looking at the neighbor in disbelief, the boy explained, "Cause I'm not allowed to cross the street!"

I've learned over the years: no freedom is absolute and when we have reached what we think is freedom, we may have simply attained a state of bondage on a less obvious level. We are a lot like that little boy, forever running away from home, but getting nowhere because we aren't allowed to cross the street.

In John 8 we find the critics of Jesus confidently discussing "truth" and "freedom" without really knowing what it is like to personally know either of them. Like the old farmer once explained, "You can't describe a place you ain't never been to." So often, that is what is happening when we talk confidently about "truth" and "freedom."

WALKING IN DARKNESS

It all begins when Jesus proclaims, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life" (8:12). Immediately the Pharisees pounce on him, "You are bearing witness to yourself; your testimony is not true." They contest what Jesus is saying because they reject him, but Jesus tells them that what he says is true because it comes, not from him, but God. Surely, if they knew God, they would recognize what Jesus is saying as true.

Of course, that's the hard part, isn't it? How can we be sure we know God: "If you knew me," says Jesus, "you would know my Father also" (8:19). This is what Jesus meant when he said the he is the light of the world. He illuminates the darkness that surrounds the nature of God. When we know what Jesus is about, we also know what God is like. All that I think that I know about God is what I have seen in the life and words of Jesus, enough for me to live hopefully and faithfully.

This light gives me the only possible capacity for true freedom. As Jesus tells his followers: "If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples, and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free" (8:21,22). Their reply is indignant: "We are descendants of Abraham, and have never been in bondage to anyone. How is it that you say, 'You will be made free?'" (8:33).

WHO ME, IN BONDAGE?

I can hear us saying: "I'm a descendant of John Wesley, how can you say I'm in bondage?" "I'm a disciple of John Calvin, what do you mean I'm not free?" "I'm a Roman Catholic, how can you make me more free?" Actually, "truth" and "freedom" are not so much in what we say we believe, but in what we do about it. "If you were Abraham's children, you would do what Abraham did, but now you seek to kill me, a man who has told you the truth. . ." (8:39,40). If the life doesn't match the words, the words are a lie.

As I write these words the whole world waits to see whether we will once again go to war with Saddam Hussein. The other day my wife, Valere, told an audience that, as Christians, we ought to pray for Saddam and the people were shocked. Pray for such a man as he? But isn't that what Christ has taught us to do with our enemies? If we are true disciples of Jesus, how can we curse those who are our enemies? Is it because we believe that God is incapable of changing the heart of this tyrant?

"So if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed." Only in Christ can we know real freedom — from hate and prejudice, from judging when we ought to be blessing, from despair when God offers us hope. Only when Christ has freed us from that kind of bondage can we be free indeed!

Lehigh County Honors Conservation Farmer

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Each year the Lehigh County Conservation District honors an agricultural operation that has been diligent in applying conservation practices and has demonstrated community involvement.

The district recently selected David Fink, owner of Heidel Hollow Farm of Heidelberg Township, as its 1998 Conservation Farmer of the Year.

Heidel Hollow, last featured in the Nov. 1, 1997 issue of Foraging Around, which appeared in Lancaster Farming, is a poultry, hay, and cash grain operation. Owners David and Sonia Fink participate in various conservation cost-share programs.

In the past they have completed a long-term agrement and a Water Quality Incentive Program (WQIP) contract. They have also completed a 1997 Environmental Quality Incentive Program (EQIP) contract. All those programs demonstrate a long-term commitment to applying conservation practices to the land.

Cooperators with the district since 1979, the Finks operate 947 acres. Conservation practices include 191 acres in contour farming, 22 acres in cross-slope farming, 0.3 acre in critical area planting, 4,200 feet in waterways, 0.6 acre in obstruction removal, 1 acre in heavy use protection, 260 acres in contour stripcropping, 123 acres in field stripcropping, 650 feet of terraces, 6,459 feet of subsurface drainage, and 900 feet of underground outlet.

In addition, management practices include 1,801 acres of conservation crop rotation, 471 acres of conservation tillage, 254 acres in residue management, 344 acres in grasses and legumes in rotation, 1 acre in upland wildlife habitat management, and 18 acres in forest stand improvement.

The Finks have participated in the Kids to Farms Program.

Free Enterprise...

Two words that business people around the world take very seriously. Members of the Pennsylvania Livestock Auction Association take free enterprise very seriously too. They realize that producers have a choice when it comes time to buy and sell livestock and they are dedicated to making sure that producers can take advantage of the free enterprise system in the best way possible... at the local auction market.

Pennsylvania livestock markets strive to provide you with the kind of service you deserve as a business person and a friend. You can be assured that the honesty, integrity and solid marketing fundamentals found at your local market will ensure nothing less than the true market value for your livestock.

New Healthy Pleasures Drink From DFA Set to Tickle Consumer Taste Buds

Healthy Pleasures, a new low-fat, dairy-based nutritional drink from Dairy Farmers of America (DFA), is getting rave reviews in consumer taste tests against leaders in one of the country's fastest growing food markets — the diet and nutritional drink category.

Healthy Pleasures is a shakelike drink fortified with a nutritionally balanced complement of vitamins and minerals produced by the Formulated Dairy Food Products division of DFA.

"In taste tests against other weight-control and nutritional drinks, consumers show a significant taste preference for Healthy Pleasures," says Dan Williams, vice president of marketing and sales for DFA. "In fact, its taste was actually preferred by dieting women over Ultra Slim Fast in a national taste test."

Including better taste, Healthy Pleasures has several key product innovations that set it apart from the competition:

- Healthy Pleasures is manufactured by a process that allows the product to be stored and transported without refrigeration for up to 12 months.
- Healthy Pleasures is the first nutritional beverage to be introduced in glass bottles with a full wraparound shrink label that are designed to be more consumer-friendly. In fact, the Healthy Pleasures package design won the beverage category Mobius Advertising Award in February 1999.

"We think the combination of excellent nutritional value, taste and innovative packaging will attract consumers to Healthy Pleasures as a convenient, healthy and enjoyable drink they can use anytime as a meal or snack substitute," Williams explains.

Sam McCroskey, chief operating officer at DFA Formulated Dairy Food Products, agrees. "Healthy Pleasures is the result of extensive product development, stringent taste testing and our experience with dairy products," McCroskey adds. "DFA has been a copacker for leading nutritional drink companies for more than 50 years. During that time, we have established product development and manufacturing expertise that makes DFA a national leader in this category of products."

Dairy Farmers of America is a growing dairy marketing cooperative that markets milk for more than 22,000 dairy producer/members in 43 states. DFA supplies milk to bottling and manufacturing plants that produce a complete line of dairy products and food components for consumers in the United States and around the world.

Student Ag Day At Maryland Ready For 74th Annual Run

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Every year, on the fourth Saturday in April, students in the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources alert the academic community and Washington, D.C., area commuters to the fact that farm animals still are part of the scene on this urban-oriented campus.

As it has for nearly three-fourth of a century, Maryland's 74th annual Student Ag Day on April 24 will attempt to convey the atmosphere and traditions of a small-scale country fair in an urban setting. This year's theme is "Agriculture — More Than Cows and Flows."

In 1971, Ag Day was the only fourth-Saturday-in April event not shut down by the National Guard, which was occupying the campus to control anti-Vietnam War protest activities. This year, Ag Day is but one example of "Explore Our World" open houses being held across the campus following the inauguration of a new University of Maryland president on Friday (April 23).

Most Ag Day festivities will center on the livestock barns area, behind the Institute for Physical Science and Technology, at the intersection of Regents Drive and Farm Drive. The event will run from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Typical of country fairs, Ag Day will feature student competition in fitting and showing farm animals — dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine and sheep. Meanwhile, student riders from the University of Maryland equestrian team will perform at 1 p.m.

A swine fitting and showing contest for faculty members with little or no previous experience will get under way at 2:30 p.m. And Dan Mote, the newly inaugurated University of Maryland president, will be on hand at 3 p.m. to award championship ribbons to top student contestants in farm animal fitting and showing.

Five faculty members from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources will star in a new "Kiss the Pig" contest; and there will be a faculty dunking booth, with a disk jockey furnishing background country and bluegrass music.

Hamburgers and hot dogs will be on sale throughout the day by members of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. Bedding plants and vegetable transplants will be sold by the University of Maryland student chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

There will be a farm animal petting zoo for children and a dog-and-pony animal circus, along with a demonstration by "Fidos for Freedom" dogs for handicapped persons.

New features this year will include "Cow Chip Bingo" and a display of modern and antique farm machinery.

James R. Adkins of Parsonsburg (Wicomico County), a senior in Biological Resources Engineering, is this year's Ag Day coordinator. Adkins is second vice president of Ag Student Council, which sponsors the annual event with assistance from other student organizations in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Richard A Ahrens of Berwyn Heights (Prince George's County) is in his third year as faculty adviser to the Ag Student Council. Dr. Ahrens is a professor of nutrition and food science. He is scheduled to retire later this year; so the 1999 official Ag Day program book is dedicated to him.

Judges for the livestock fitting and showing competition will be as folows:

Dairy cattle — Jeffery W. Semler of Clear Spring (Washington County). Semler is a Maryland Cooperative Extension 4-H youth and agriculture/natural resources educator in his county. He has been an assistant coach for both the Maryland 4-H and collegiate dairy cattle judging teams.

Swine — G. Barry Roach of Piney Point (St. Mary's County). Roach is involved with the Harry Lundeberg School of Seamanship, operating the school's government-owned farm, where he raises cattle, hogs and crops. He is a 1975 University of Maryland alumnus in Government and Politics.

Beef cattle — R. Gradon Ripley of Davidsonville (Anne Arundel) County. Ripley grew up on a livestock farm and serves as a coach for the Howard County 4-H livestock judging team. He is a noted beef cattle judge.

Sheep — Jennifer Woodward-Greene of Woodbine (Howard County). Ms. Greene was graduated cum laude from the University of Maryland in 1994 with a B.S. degree from the animal and avian sciences department, where she currently is a graduate student. She grew up on a sheep farm and is a former Maryland Lamb and Wool Queen.

High-quality CLAAS® equipment satisfies your need for high-quality silage

CLAAS knows your need for nutrient-rich silage so we offer technologically advanced, heavy-duty fixed chamber and variable chamber round balers that produce perfectly formed, uniform, dense bales. Both models are available with ROLLATEX® net wrap or twine and the optional, efficient ROTO CUT® cutting system that pre-processes silage and adds greater density to every bale. Check our durable disk mower conditioners with a 9'9" cutting width. They follow ground contours for a clean, even cut. Discover reliable, heavy-duty tedders, available in 18' to 33' models, to accelerate dry down. And don't overlook our dependable, heavy-duty rotary rakes with tandem axles that adjust to uneven ground conditions to produce uniform, fluffy windrows. # Grange Day Celebration guest speaker Eugene Hickok, state secretary of education; Pa. Public Utilities Commissioner Aaron Wilson who dealt with a range of questions from a workshop audience on PUC dealings, from deregulated electricity and rural cooperatives to telephone changes; and Gordon Hiller, past master of the state Grange who now serves as president of the Grange Service Corporation, who talked about Grange services to a workshop audience.

The pro-Compact rally started the Grange event. It was introduced by state Grange Master William Steel, who has been actively pursuing the issue and promoting passage of legislation.

In addition to the supporters, there were several political leaders who normally attend such functions who did not attend. However, there were other concerns Monday as the state Legislature was in active session on Monday to consider a number of different issues, including the Compact legislation.

When session is active, it becomes difficult for many elected representatives to attend such special events, as well as for lobbyists.

During the pro-Compact rally, respective sponsors of Senate and House Compact legislation — state Sen. Roger Madigan and state Rep. Sandra Major — spoke about the need for passage of legislation and the need for Pennsylvania to join.

Also speaking was state Sen. William Slocum, majority chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, who said he also supports the Compact.

Sen. Slocum said it had been his pleasure to work with Sen. Madigan while the bill was in the Senate Ag Committee, to help get it moved out and on track for full Senate consideration.

(Madigan's Senate bill had been considered by the Senate Appropriations Committee which promptly moved it out for full Senate consideration on April 12. The bill was to have been approved by the Senate this week on third consideration and be forwarded to the House of Representatives for its consideration. The House has been considering Rep. Major's and Rep. Italo Cappabianca's similarly proposed pieces of legislation, though they remained in the House Agriculture Committee.)

Sen. Slocum repeated a statement he made earlier in the year regarding the Compact legislation: "In a lot of rural areas, the Compact (if it is expanded to encompass Pennsylvania) will be farmland preservation for us. It is also economic development."

National Grange Master Kermit Richardson also spoke out in favor of the Compact. He noted that the National Grange was the lead organization in promoting the concept of establishing a dairy compact, using Constitutional authorities for such organization.

He said that the Northeast Dairy Compact has been through a series of challenges and has won them all, meaning it has demonstrated its legal authority. It has benefited not just one state, but other states as well, he said.

He noted that when other dairy farmers were receiving low prices, Compact farmers received a higher price and consumers didn't suffer, and while milk prices were at their all-time high, the Compact price didn't limit farmer income.

Further, he said opponents to the Compact may claim that it is destabilizing for consumer prices, though he said Compact retail prices have stayed stable at about $2.70 per gallon.

The Compact pricing doesn't affect the Women Infants and Children program (WIC) for purchasing inexpensive milk; that schools are held harmless from increased retail pricing; and it offers no net cost to the federal or any state government.

While surplus milk in the Compact region resulted in farmers being assessed to reimburse the Commodity Credit Corporation for removals of excess dairy commodity supplies, Richardson said 99.8 percent of the surplus milk purchased by the CCC last year in the Compact area came from outside the Compact (meaning it was shipped in).

He also said that dairy farmers in Pennsylvania have waited long enough for stable pricing and that they should stop listening to Compact detractors.

However, he urged supporters to not stop their lobbying efforts, noting that even if Gov. Tom Ridge does sign Compact law for Pennsylvania, its still requires the approval of the U.S. House and Senate, and opposition in Washington D.C. is strong.

He said that if the Pennsylvania delegation were to have its state support inclusion in the Compact it may help motivate them to support the Compact, or help their cause if they already intend to do so.

There was no time to hear from the others representing organizations with pro-Compact policies, though they were recognized.

The Compact sets a floor price for dairy farmers' pay for beverage milk. Dairy farmers produce and deliver milk for use without any guarantees of selling price.

They get paid after the milk is used. If it is later discovered that there was too much milk supplied for market demand, the farmer receives less; if the milk supplied wasn't enough to supply demand, the farmer receives more.

High prices last year were due, in part, to natural meterological disasters in other milk-producing states, which drove down national availability and increased market price and farmer price for those who could still farm.

Recovery from weather disasters, such as in California, is expected to result in recovery of milk supply and lower farmer prices.

Through testing of market demand for commodities derived from milk components, specifically for butter, cheese (protein), and non-fat dry milk powder, the U.S. Department of Agriculture sets a base price for milk, called the Basic Formula Price (BFP).

Once the BFP is established, certain other factors, such as distance to market, are used to establish "differentials" which are corrections to the BFP according to how the milk was used. Differentials are area-specific and use-specific.

The demand for drinking milk changes very little, though the price for drinking milk varies because its price is linked to the value of commodities manufactured with what is essentially surplus milk.

Because of the way milk is marketed and supplied, the relatively constant drinking milk (federal Class I use) processors fill their needs first, because they can pay farmers the most money.

Additional milk is marketed according to who will take it, or who needs it, many times at a loss (if compared to cost of production of milk used for Class I) to the producer.

Further complicating the actual price a farmer gets for his milk is the blending of prices for all milk marketed.

A blending of the values (of the milk sold for beverage uses and the milk sold for other uses) results in a blend price.

Some farmers have no control or knowledge as to how their milk is to be marketed, nor at what price it is being negotiated.

Depending on how a farmer's milk is marketed, he will receive a blend price that reflects marketing negotiations.

Those who sell their milk to processors who primarily focus on bottling beverage milk receive more money than those farmers who sell their milk to processors who use the majority of the milk for its components, such as proteins for cheese.

(The real life marketing and pricing structure is more complicated than that.)

The Compact would restrict how much less the farmer could get for his drinking milk, and not limit how much more he can receive.

However, it would not affect the blend price, except that, if a farmers' milk is primarily marketed for drinking milk, his income would stay relatively stable under a Compact.

Some opponents to Compacts cite the fact that the industry is quick to state the axiom that, "Milk follows the money," yet if their area excessive diversions of milk into a Compact area, or if in-Compact region milk production increases, the demand for beverage milk can't increase, but overall prices will drop because of the decreased value on the surplus drinking milk.

The dairy industry is unique in that almost all milk is produced for beverage purposes, but the majority is marketed for non-beverage uses.

The Compact pricing works by setting beverage milk prices to be paid by consumers, and setting the pay to farmers for the milk used for drinking.

At the Grange pro-Compact rally, the two-dozen or so people who stood at the front of the room in support were representatives of the state's major as well as smaller farm and agricultural organizations, regional representatives of national cooperatives, representatives of regional dairy cooperatives, state Sen. Roger Madigan, state Rep. Sandra Major, state Sen. William Slocum, and national Grange Master Kermit Richardson.

Specifically, there was representation of the Mt. Joy Farmers Co-op, Ed Galligher represented Dairylea Co-op; Lobbyist John Nikoloff was there for Capital Associates in Harrisburg, Dennis Schad represented Land O' Lakes Dairy Co-op, several representatives were there from the Pa. Farm Bureau, Joe Connelly represented U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter, Bob Junk for the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, and Arden Tewksbury represented his Pro-Ag organization.

In his luncheon talk, state Secretary of Education Hickok described a new direction for the state's public educational system that includes school choice, respect for local school board and administration solutions for curricula, and a set of standards for teachers.

He said much about what he was talking would be made public in coming weeks.

While prior to teachers receiving large increases in salaries several years ago, the majority were loath to discuss the concept of teachers being subject to performance evaluations.

While Hickock kept from actually saying that phrase, he said that teachers would be held more accountable for their effectiveness and expertise.

Nationally, Hickock said, 40 percent of math teachers didn't major or minor in math in college. He used that information to illustrate the fact that currently teachers don't have to know the subject they are teaching.

He said new state standards would require teachers to take the college course work required of students in the specific disciplines. For example, a college teaching student wishing to be a biology teacher would actually have to take biology course work, just as a biology student.

Not only would teachers be required to take the course work, but they would be expected to achieve more than passing grades.

Hickok said that while the proposal is not designed to make it more difficult for students of teaching, than for regular discipline students, it should be expected that teachers of a subject should have enough knowledge to teach.

As it is now, he said that teachers can have flunked a subject they are teaching.

Hickok was appointed education secretary in 1995, after teaching political science at Dickinson College and serving as adjunct professor at Dickinson Law School.

Hickok said he never sought the position, and that prior to the request from Gov. Ridge to serve, he had only been involved in educational public policy issues through involvement as a parent and as a school board member.

He said serving as secretary has been "... the most rewarding (position) of my life. Every day I get a chance to spend with the most important people — children, teachers and taxpayers."

But he also said that working to improve the public school system is challenging.

He said it will require that schools teach more or what the job market and future job market requires for workers, especially in the high-tech business environment.

For example, he said he discovered that in a Midwestern high school, only 25 percent of the graduated students were qualified to take a job on an assembly line.

While that sounded fairly dismal for the school system, what it really showed, he said, was that the assembly line has changed to that it requires a working knowledge of high tech equipment, not merely a human body following simple commands. Robotics has replaced that need.

He said the students actually performed well, but the education they received had not prepared them for the actual job. There is a disparity between educational goals and focus and demands of the workplace and society.

Partnership

Bay Foundation Partnership and Chesapeake Bay Initiative, is one example where stream bank fencing is catching on.

"We've been finding ever-growing interest in stream bank fencing as a major restoration tool," said Wise.

He told those assembled on a laneway leading to a bridge over the Muddy Run Thursday morning that the program has been "very, very effective."

Tour group members watched as a track hoe with a ram hammer, a jackhammer to break up large pieces of rock, was used to take down a two-tier dam system on the tributary. The track hoe, at a cost of $100 an hour, according to Pequea-Mill Creek Project leader Frank Lucas, Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), was provided through funds from the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission.

According to Wise of the Chesapeake Bay Initiative, 2,600 feet of stream bank fencing was installed during the tour. Wise said in the Pequea-Mill Creek Watershed alone, another 600 miles of stream bank fencing can be installed to protect the banks from cattle and to restore life in and out of the stream.

"We've made a dent, but we still have a long way to go," Wise told the group, assembled after the tour for dinner at the Bird In Hand Restaurant.

The watershed, in central Lancaster County, encompasses 135,000 acres, or 22 percent of the county. It has 1,000 small farms. About 75 percent of the farms are Amish, according to Lucas.

Lucas provided a slide show to the members of the group at the luncheon. The first farm he fenced in the state was in 1992, and within six weeks, lush vegetation began to fill the stream banks.

Since then, on many such projects in the watershed, fish life has returned to the stream, including white suckers, carp, banded killifish, creek chubs, and tesselated darters. Some of the projects in the watershed have seen ducks, songbirds, blue herons, and other avian species return to the watershed.

During the tour, Lucas told the group that, at the Miller farm, the Muddy Run is designated as a second order stream, though it measures 40 or so feet wide, in spots. It should measure half the size it is.

To do so, a track hoe was brought in to remove a tiered dam system, placed years ago as a water source for the farm. The bottom tier was constructed too long ago that no records exist.

The top tier, of concrete blocks, was installed in the '60s, according to Lucas.

There are 40 farms on the stream, according to the project leader. Twenty have been fenced already — a little more than five miles. Three more farms on the stream will be fenced in the summer, Lucas noted.

The benefits of getting livestock out of the streams are plentiful. Getting cows wet and dirty, according to the experts at the tour, only creates mastitis problems, to the tune of $180 per cow per year, according to Wise. Lucas tells pro-

Conjugated Linoleic Acid In Dairy Products

Lawrence D. Muller
And
James E. Delahoy
Penn State University

There are many articles in the popular press and scientific journals that discuss the health benefits of consuming dairy products. In a recent magazine article, milk and dairy products were referred to as "wonder foods" of the next millennium. Numerous scientific papers are also reporting the benefits of dairy products in reducing risk of osteoporosis, hypertension and arteriosclerosis and some forms of cancer.

One component in milk which is currently receiving much public attention is conjugated linoleic acid, or CLA. Chemically, CLA is a collective term to describe one or more positional isomers of the fatty acid linoleic acid. CLA is a minor fatty acid naturally found in the milk of ruminant animals.

Scientists have known for some time about the anticarcinogenic effects of CLA, but more recent research indicates that CLA may reduce the risk of heart disease and prevent the onset of diabetes While much of this research has been conducted with experimental animals, studies are now reporting similar findings in the laboratory with human cells.

In addition, one long-term study tracking the intake of dairy products in women found that there was an association between increased consumption of dairy products and a decreased incidence of breast cancer Since CLA is a natural anticarcinogen, it may be partially responsible for this decrease in incidence of breast cancer.

These findings may provide potential for increased profit for dairy producers with the value added pricing of milk Methods of increasing the CLA content in milk and other dairy products is being evaluated worldwide. CLA is produced by the bacterial breakdown and conversion of dietary fat in the rumen of the dairy cow. A recent study conducted at Penn State in collaboration with Cornell found a four-fold increase in the CLA content in milk from cows fed pasture compared to cows fed TMR. Researchers in Wisconsin reported a similar four-fold increase

In general, feeding higher forage diets results in increased CLA content of milk, but not to the same extent as when pasture is the major forage Research has found that in traditional feeding systems, with TMR's and stored forages, feeding fat supplements such as whole soybeans and various types of vegetable oils increases the CLA content in milk. This increase may be due to specific fats provided to the rumen to make CLA.

Can these feeds and vegetable oils further increase CLA content in milk with pasture as the major source of forage? Recent research suggests this to be the case and there is potential to increase CLA concentrations beyond the 4 to 5 fold increase found with just pasture. These changes in CLA content in milk allow us to realize an increased CLA intake without increasing fat consumption, and help to strike a balance between dietary fat and CLA intake

The average CLA content of milk in the grocery store is about 3 to 5 mg of CLA/g of fat Since CLA is a fat, the lower the fat content of milk, the lower the CLA content. Therefore, it becomes essential to find a balance between total fat consumption and the intake of CLA.

Whole milk and milk fat consumption have gradually decreased Since cows are pastured less than they were 20 to 30 years ago, the intake of CLA, the beneficial fatty acid that is part of milk fat, has decreased One recent article states, "the beneficial fatty acid is a casualty of animal diets, and the trend to decreasing milk fat consumption "

Some estimates suggest that typical human diets provide 25% of the needed CLA Increasing the CLA content of milk may increase the CLA available in the normal diet without increasing total fat content. This is good news for milk fat, and the dairy industry may have the opportunity to capitalize on CLA and change the public's perception of dairy products

Maryland DHIA Report For March 1996

The March 1996 Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd. To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of 3.5 percent fat corrected milk per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test.

Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top eight herds for Ayrshires.

Land O' Lakes Members Elect Delegates, Receive Awards

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Land O' Lakes capped another successful year financially, dairy farmer members were told during the recent dairy foods unit meetings held throughout the Mid-Atlantic region, according to a cooperative news release.

The cooperative recorded sales of $5.2 billion and net earnings of $69 million. Sales were up 23 percent in 1998 mainly due to key acquisitions and mergers, including the merger with Dairyman's Cooperative Creamery Association of Tulare, Calif.

Land O' Lakes Dairy Foods achieved its fifth consecutive year of earnings improvement. The $43 million in earnings, up 43 percent over 1997, represent a 30.3-cent per hundredweight allocation to members.

During the meetings, the membership elected unit delegates to represent each of the 23 dairy foods units. Unit delegates represent members at Land O' Lakes annual meeting and joint directors meeting, among others.

Those elected include Levi Ransom, Nicholson; Wendy Wehrmann, Gillett; Don Bergey, Millville; Larry Dotterer, Mill Hall; J. Loren Yoder, Belleville; Randall Huntsman, Martinsburg; Ernie Gelsinger, Robesonia; David Bitler, Fleetwood; James Hallowell, Ottsville; Nelson Habecker, Lancaster; Dale Hershey, Manheim; Walter C. Martin, New Holland; and Donald Ranck, Paradise.

Also elected were Ralph McGregor, East Berlin; D. Ray Geissinger, Mifflintown; David Cadwallader, Salem, N.J.; Jeffrey Moore, Centreville, Md.; William Moore, Chatham; Scott Kreider, Quarryville; Thomas Wakefield, Bedford; David Roth, Williamsport, Md.; Stanley C. Myers, Greencastle; and James A. Stonesifer, Union Bridge, Md.

In other business, 153 producers were elected as area delegates. Area delegates represent Land O' Lakes members at the June leadership meeting and the fall regional meeting. Also, 302 Quality Premium awards were presented to members who qualified for the cooperative's quality milk bonus all 12 months of 1998.

In addition, a total of 52 membership awards were presented to those members with 25, 50 and 75 years of membership.

Receiving 75-year membership awards were Breezyvale Farms Inc., Yardley; Clovervale Dairy Farms Inc., Pilesgrove, N.J.; H.W. Cook & Sons, Newark, Del.; Donwaland Holsteins Inc., Church Hill, Md.; Donald C. Gable, Elverson; Charles E. Groff, Kinzers; James F. III and Lynda Hall, Church Hill, Md.; C. Barclay Hoopes Jr.; Landenberg; Kenneth V. and James C. Saylor, Williamsburg; Raymond B. Tussey, Huntingdon; Walamore Holsteins Inc., Chatham; and Harry T. Williams & Son, Worton, Md.

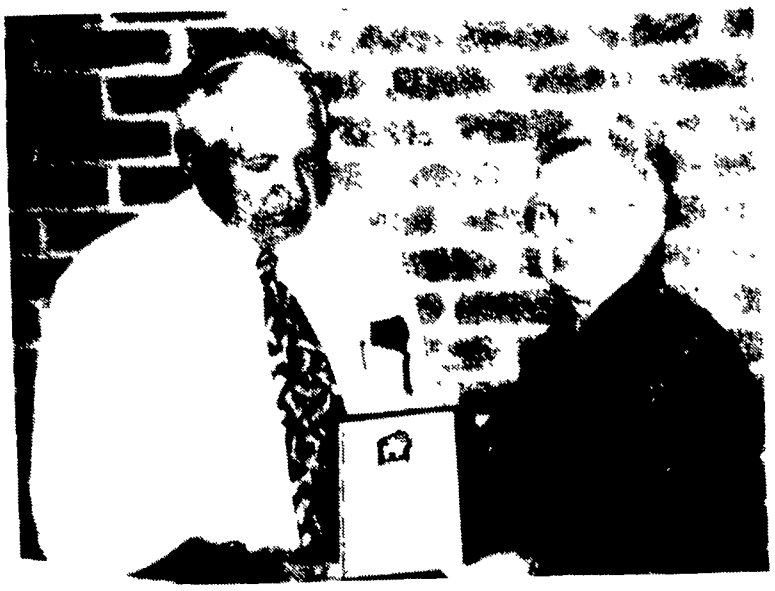
• Miranda J. Leese, sophomore at Wilson College, Chambersburg, majoring in veterinary medical technology and is employed by the Finksburg Veterinary Center, Finksburg, Md.



Ray and Mary Grimes of McKnightstown were honored by the Adams County Beef Producers for their work in the beef industry.

The Adams County Beef Producers will donate $10,000 over three years for the construction of an Adams County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center. Faith Peterson, left, capital campaign co-chair, accepts a check from Bill Huffman, representing the beef producers.

Beef Producers Honor

• Kimberly Marion, senior at Bermudian Springs High School, who will begin her studies in agricultural education at Penn State York. She is an active member of the FFA and has achieved the school honor roll for the past three years.

Mary and Ray Grimes of McKnightstown were honored for their work for the beef industry.

Mary said the couple helped develop the Keystone Ribsteak Sandwich using all Adams County products. "We ate a lot of ribeye steaks" developing the sandwiches, she said.

Elmer Smith, a New Oxford area grain farmer and a former beef producer, was given the conservation award. Smith has instituted a number of conservation practices including the installation of tile waterways, three terraces, two retention ponds and extensively uses no-till farming.

"The terraces allow him to continuously grow corn and soybeans, and double crop barley/late soybeans.

He started his no-till practice in 1977 and has successfully done so in some of his fields for 12 years. Recently he has further fine-tuned his methods using an aerway tiller to loosen up compacted soil and aid in water retention. This practice helps prevent run-off and keeps moisture in the field.

Smith farms 152 acres near New Oxford.

Janel Keller, 16, of 2315 Old Harrisburg Road, the daughter of David and Karen Keller, was named the Adams County Beef Producers queen. She is a student at Gettysburg High School and will graduate in 2001. She is a member of the Adams County Beef Club and the 4-H senate.

B.J. Wagner, 17, son of George and Sonja Wagner of Orrtanna, was named Adams County Beef Producers Ambassador. He is a student at Gettysburg Area High School and will graduate in 2000. He is a member of the high school's Outdoor Club, the National Honor Society, the Adams County 4-H Swine Club, and is active in 4-H Senate.

Andrew Seymore, son of Lois Seymore of York Springs, is a student at Bermudian Springs High School and will graduate in 2000. He is president of the Bermudian FFA and a member of the Adams County Beef Club.

Keller and Wagner will serve as a team representing the beef producers at various functions. Seymore will act as alternate and fill in if the others can not attend an event.

The organization also donated $10,000 over three years to the Adams County Agricultural and Natural Resources Center expected to be built starting in June.

Elmer Smith, a New Oxford area grain farmer and former beef farmer, was given the 1999 Conservation Award by the Adams County Beef Producers.

The Adams County Beef Producers announced achievement awards winners for 1999. Pictured are, left, Miranda J. Leese, a sophomore at Wilson College, Chambersburg, majoring in veterinary medical technology, and Kimberly Marion, a senior at Bermudian Springs High School, who plans to study agricultural education at Penn State York. Absent when the awards were given were Allyson Anne Cole and Wayne Flickinger.

Rib Eye Ultrasound Demonstration At Willow Creek

WOMELSDORF (Berks Co.) — The Berks County 4-H Beef Club is to tour the Willow Creek Animal Hospital, 7:30 p.m., April 26.

The highlight of the event is to be an ultrasound demonstration by Dr. Lenora Sammons. The ultrasound is to show the rib-eye area and back fat on a dairy heifer.

This new technique is an important way of showing what a market animal's carcass is going to look like, without killing it. At many national shows, live market animals are being ultrasounded and judged in carcass classes.

Ultrasounds are also important for cow/calf operations. Ultrasounds of calves growing inside the cow have been taken to show possible multiple births, or how far along the gestation is, or genetic birth defects.

The Berks County 4-H Beef Club members will be getting information on how technology, like ultrasound, is improving cattle operations across the nation.

Members will be talking to the large animal veterinarians while on a tour of the clinic. They will be discussing how they perform operations for various reasons, store medicines, do tests, and how they make decisions on what type of treatment the animals need.

Dr. Lenora Sammons will be talking with members about how the clinic operates.

"Members truly will be having a wonderful experience visiting the clinic and seeing the ultrasound demonstration," said Emilie Miller, a sixth-year member of the club and a cattle producer in Tulpehocken Township.

"I was pleased Dr. Sammons agreed to host this event. I learned about this technique when I showed my Hereford steer at a junior national show in Fort Worth, Texas, and appreciated knowing how he compared to the other steers at the show without having to go to slaughter."

Miller and club member Matt Manbeck organized the ultrasound meeting.

Later this year, plans are to integrate the Pork Council into PennAg. This would enable the different agricultural sectors to more effectively integrate with the agribusiness community.

The individual councils can lobby for member directives with more unity and strength for the agribusiness community.

"The association will keep tabs on what's going on but each group will work independently," Adams said.

In other business at the banquet, Shirk presented a special service award to Clair Hilsher for his work in organizing the poultry food booth at the state Farm Show. Hilsher takes a week's vacation from his employment in order to ensure that things run smoothly at the ducers there is nothing good for the cows in the stream or the ponds.

Wise noted that the effective and simple techniques of stream bank installation work well to prevent herd health problems. "Veterinarians are big allies for us," he said.

If all goes as planned, according to John Plowman, public relations, Pennsylvania Game Commission, "there will be fly fishing here and on some of the other streams."

Once all the restoration is done, agencies believe that fly fishing will be a reality on the Muddy Run. Plowman helped release 55 trout donated by the Paradise Valley Sportsmen's Association at the tour.

Plowman agreed with the assessment of the agencies present that, within a few years, perhaps even by next year, the site will be a place for anglers to do some "first-class, cold water fishing."

Plowman noted that Landis Blocks, together with Hatfield Quality Meats, worked together to donate more than $20,000 in hog slats used as stream crossings to the watershed project. About 200 slats will be used to help the habitat of Pennsylvania, noted Clair "Butch" Clemens of Hatfield Quality Meats.

Through the work of the Hans Herr FFA at Lancaster Mennonite High School, stream bank fence crossings, or stiles, were constructed and drilled in place along the stream. Attending the tour and installing the stiles were Jason Rohrer, Jason Breneman, James Mast, Jeff Smoker, and FFA adviser Lem Metzler.

The stiles, paid for with a $1,000 grant from Trout Unlimited, would allow public fishing and trout stocking programs to take place at the Miller farm, on Muddy Run, noted Mike Kauffman, fishery biologist, Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission. Metzler noted that the stiles cost $46.50 a piece for materials.

A duck box, pointed toward the house, was also installed Thursday at the farm. The house can also draw bluebirds and other avian life, noted Lucas. Helping install the box were Larry Zuschlag, NRCS technician and Charles Ackley, Penn State extension water quality project assistant.

John Plowman, right, noted that Landis Blocks, together with Hatfield Quality Meats, worked together to donate more than $20,000 in hog slats used as stream crossings to the watershed project. About 200 slats will be used to help the habitat of Pennsylvania, noted Clair "Butch" Clemens, left, of Hatfield Quality Meats.

Tour group members watched as a track hoe with a ram hammer, a jackhammer to break up large pieces of rock, was used to take down a two-tier dam system on the tributary.

Kauffman called on legislators to take a look at ways to help protect farms from liability, if opening up farms for fishing to the general public.

But the good news, Kauffman noted, was that farmers have "embraced the idea of stocking and public fishing," he said.

The commission is hoping to stock the stream next spring with trout over a two-mile stretch of the stream before the trout season opens in mid-May.

Mike Hollins of Ecosystem Recovery Enterprises of New Freedom directed a group of volunteers and young people on probation, together with probation officers, to install stream bank plantings. The live stakes include dormant hardwood cuttings of willows, dogwoods, and elderberries.

Hollins, whose nonprofit company helps restore stream banks, helped direct the installation of 600 plantings on each side of the bank. A total of 1,500 feet each side were planted, donated from private nurseries and the game commission, and some from the company.

About 15 people were out. Tony Woods, probation officer, said the volunteers and kids help out all over the county, doing stream restoration work. In the group were 13 kids, six young adults, and seven adults.

Robert D. Hoffman, director of conservation programs with Ducks Unlimited Inc., Ann Arbor, Mich., noted the cooperative work of many agencies and industries to

Kraft Foods Honors Dairylea Cooperative

NORTHFIELD, Ill. — Kraft Foods Inc. has announced that Dairylea Cooperative, Syracuse, N.Y. has been selected as a winner of the Kraft Foods Rick Stuedemann Award for supplier excellence.

Dairylea Cooperative Inc. is an agricultural service organization, cooperatively owned by 2,700 dairy farmers located throughout the Northeast. It markets more than 5 billion pounds of milk annually and is part of a milk-marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

Additionally, through its subsidiary, Agri-Services, LLC, it provides a wide array of insurance, financial, investment, purchasing and risk management services for farmers.

Dairylea supplies milk to Kraft's plants in northern New York.

"Dairylea kept the milk flowing to our plants throughout a very tough year," said Larry Gundrum, senior vice president of operations for Kraft. "Early in the year there was a devastating ice storm in New England and upstate New York. In the second half of the year, milk supplies were exceptionally tight. In service to Kraft, they are a clear winner."

Kraft established this annual award to recognize suppliers who share in the company's commitment to superior quality. Recipients are chosen based on criteria including continuous improvement efforts, innovation, use of technology and cost efficiency and effectiveness exhibited over the prior year.

To be considered, suppliers must have worked with Kraft's North American operations for at least one year. The award is dedicated to the memory of Rick Stuedemann, former Kraft vice president of purchasing.

Other 1998 winners include American National Can Company (cereal box liners and flexible packaging); SKW Biosystems (fruit preparations); Dean Foods (non-dairy coffee creamer); Geneva Lakes Cold Storage (third-party logistics services); The Keebler Company (baked goods); Triple Crown Services (transportation services); and Marathon Cheese Corporation (cheese).

The award, called "The Spiral," was created by Chicago artist Jeph Bilsky. It is comprised of a series of 10-inch beveled emerald glass panels rotated on an axis to form a circle. Each panel builds on the next, depending on it for support and strength.

"The award visually represents the relationship Kraft has with its suppliers and how we view their role in our success," said Gundrum.

Kraft Foods, the multinational food business of Philip Morris Companies Inc., purchases over $10 billion worth of materials and services annually from more than 1,000 suppliers throughout the United States and Canada.

Senate Approves Dairy Compact Legislation 44-6

Officially, the Senate bill still needs to be sent to the House Ag Committee by House leadership, before the committee can review it.

The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact is a multi-state trading agreement originally intended only for the six New England states, that was authorized by the 1996 Farm Bill.

The 1996 Farm Bill set up for the removal of the federal government from its 50-year role in manipulating the market availability and thus the market values of agricultural commodities, and setting up producer-support prices and programs.

The purpose for federal support programs was to ensure the availability of reasonably affordable foods to Americans, as well as to maintain an adequate commodity production sector.

While the dairy industry never demonstrated consensus on what federal policy should be for itself (during a series of meetings held across the nation that resulted in no consensus, and regional and industry sector differences), for the most part the mainstream sector supported removal of federal pricing.

(Some who now support the expansion of the Dairy Compact and the creation of other similar Compacts around the nation have said that the reason the dairy industry wanted to be free of the federal government in the early 1990s was because, at the time, dairy farmers were being assessed monies by the federal government that were used to help pay down the national deficit, as well as provide a disincentive to expansion. That program ended with the 1996 Farm Bill.)

Federal government support programs were also targeted for removal because they posed barricades to international trade negotiations in achieving free markets for United States' agricultural commodities.

World market prices of various agricultural commodities have been kept artificially low for years as a number of nations sought to maintain certain domestic agricultural sectors, if not all in-country agrarian production and cultures.

(A commonality in many nations' protectionistic programs for agricultural overproduction is essentially that the surplus is purchased by the government, removed from domestic supplies, and offered at a discount to the world.)

The strategy has been shown to temporarily maintain domestic production and standards of living, as long as the burden to the rest of the economy isn't overwhelming, but the strategy of protectionism has not been shown to be a satisfactory plan for long-term stability.

The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact was achieved in the 1996 Farm Bill because of a trade-off of interests, and because Vermont's U.S. Sen. Patrick Leahy argued that the Northeast states — a deficit dairy production region — was not a major producer of milk or dairy products, had natural disadvantages to dairy farming and was losing dairy farmers at a rapid rate, which not only hurt the Northeast's rural agricultural business sectors, but the region's tourism industries as well.

In the meantime, the methods employed by the federal government to arrive at a value for milk has resulted in extreme volatility in producer prices.

Furthermore, despite two of the past three years providing all-time record dairy producer prices, and 1999 projected to provide the third all-time highest average producer price (even with the dramatic drop in price early this year), those prices are averages, and dairy farmers don't generally operate on annual averages, but monthly cash flows.

Farmer income can be measured in many different ways, depending upon the length of time discussed, and whether it be in terms of cash flow to meet debit payment demand or in annual total revenues compared to outlays.

Dairy farmers, unlike other agricultural sectors, have not been familiar with risk management and techniques for dealing with extreme fluctuations in cash flow.

Earlier this year, the federal government followed through with the introduction of its pilot program to offer dairy farmers a virtually risk-free opportunity to learn how to use dairy futures put options as a form of "crop insurance" to prevent extreme drops in prices received, such as is currently happening.

However, farmer participation was less than desired.

In the meantime, Pennsylvania has become a center for political pressure for support of the Northeast Compact.

In order for Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, and certain other states to join the Northeast or a new Southern Compact and/or Pacific Compact, the federal Legislature would have to pass legislation authorizing such.

For the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, if Pennsylvania would not join, it could isolate Maryland from being contiguous and being eligible, should the federal political body favor expansion and reauthorization of the Compact.

New York's Legislature approved Compact enabling legislation last year, when it was tied into a pay raise for the Legislature and offered in late hour dealings.

While some Compact reauthorization and expansion legislation has been introduced at the federal level for consideration, it is perceived to not be a political imperative.

What has been grabbing national attention has been the military action being undertaken by the United States in its partnership with other nations in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO)'s effort to stop the Serbians in Yugoslavia from killing and expulsing unarmed ethnic residents in an effort to "racially cleanse" the southern region of Kosovo.

Senate Approves Dairy Compact Legislation 44-6

Additionally, domestic news highlights this week have also upstaged agricultural policy issues, as national attention has been directed toward a mass killing and suicide at a Colorado high school, where a group of outcast teenagers who armed themselves with rifles and bombs injured and killed a number of students and staff, before killing themselves.

However, national and state farm organizations and national cooperatives have been actively promoting the reauthorization of the Northeast Dairy Compact and the creation of others.

This has been done especially since U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman has announced a final order for the reformation of the federal dairy program, with pricing milk, and with establishing a reduction in marketing areas.

Farmers are to have the opportunity to vote on the final proposal. Cooperative leadership can vote on behalf of its farmer members.

Farm organizations and cooperatives have issued a number of news releases critizing the final order. There have been no news releases stating support for the proposal, except for comments included in the USDA's summaries of the final order.

In brief, under the final order, if adopted as proposed, dairy farmers in the Middle Atlantic states (traditionally higher priced) can expect to experience an overall drop in milk price, while other areas of the nation (traditionally lower priced) can expect increases.

Also, according to some in leadership of one cooperative, there have been some unofficial side-discussions about potentially negotiating and establishing some long-term supply and price contracts between dairy producers and milk manufacturers, in order to take better control of supply and demand and thus enable the entire dairy industry to make longer term planning and risk management decisions.

The six opposition votes to Sen. Madigan's Compact legislation were by Sen. Albert Belan (D) of Allegheny and Westmoreland counties; Sen. Leonard Bodack (D) of Allegheny County; Sen. Jay Costa Jr. (D) of Allegheny County; Sen. Stewart Greenleaf (R) of Bucks and Montgomery counties; Sen. Timothy Murphy (R) of Allegheny and Washington counties; and Sen. Jack Wagner (D) of Allegheny County.

An association of independent milk producers has been created in the western part of the state to fight against the Compact and artificial pricing for producers. At a previous hearing on the Compact, a small cooperative of dairy producers who sell to an independent processor voiced opposition to the Compact.

Sens. Madigan, and William Slocum, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, both said that more than anything, the potential for their constituent dairy farmers to benefit from Compact pricing is viewed as a form of farmland preservation.

Rep. Raymond Bunt has said that it is his intent to call a committee meeting to consider the Senate Compact legislation as soon as he receives it.

He said the House Ag Committee members have known about the Senate legislation for some time and it is only right that they have the opportunity to review it.

Beef Producers Set April 28 Meeting

NOTTINGHAM (Chester Co.) — A Beef Producers Spring Meeting is scheduled Wednesday, April 28, from 7 p.m.-9:30 p.m. here at the Herr Angus Farm.

Sponsored by the Southeast Cattlemen's Association and Chester County Cooperative Extension, the meeting will include an overview of scanning technologies by Dr. John Comerford, Penn State beef specialist. Comerford will explain the use of scanning technology in feedlots and cow/calf operations.

Eric Fleming, president of Millennium Measuring, Libertytown, Md., will demonstrate the actual scanning of feeder and finish cattle. He will answer questions about facility needs, costs, and other considerations.

Following will be a question and answer session.

For reservations, call (610) 696-3500. There is no charge.

The meeting will be held rain or snow because the chute system and meeting area are under cover.

Light refreshments will be served before the start of the meeting.

NAAB To Hold Convention

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The 53rd Annual Convention of the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) will be held July 30-31, in St. Louis, Missouri. The headquarters hotel will be the recently renovated downtown Hyatt Regency situated in the historic Union Station complex. The complex contains retail shops, restaurants, entertainment and a one-acre lake.

Friday evening's Welcome Reception at Busch Stadium will kick off the convention. Food and drink will be served in the "Batter's Eye Club" where attendees will have a unique view of the Cardinals (and "Big Mac") play the Colorado Rockies inside elegant surroundings and outside in cushioned seats.

Saturday morning will feature an informative educational session. Saturday afternoon NAAB will hold its General Business Session which will include the Call to Order. Call to the meeting, and the reading of any proposed resolutions. Chairman of the Nominating Committee, will report on candidates for the NAAB Board of Directors, and NAAB voting delegates will elect one director to fill the one position being vacated by Richard Chichester who has completed two full three-year terms.

NAAB Chairman of the Board Dick Chichester will give his "Chairman's Address" and delegates will hear from Dr. Donald Monke, Select Sires, Chairman of Certified Semen Services. President Gordon A. Doak, Ph.D., will give his "President's Address," and delegates will review the six-month finances of the Association and act on any resolution brought before the Convention.

The NAAB Convention will conclude Saturday evening with a reception, banquet and awards program. AI technicians who have serviced over 100,000 cows, as well as industry sales people who have sold over 500,000 units of semen, will be recognized with a plaque presentation ceremony. the Research Award.

For convention registration information contact Mary Derby, NAAB, P.O. Box 1033, Columbia, MO 65205, Tel.: 573/445-4406 or Fax: 573/446-2279.

POURED CONCRETE WALLS

You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced bring the project to fruition.

Janet Oertly, state conservation with NRCS, said the landowner was also crucial in the success of the project.

"Without the private landowner stepping up to the plate, this doesn't go anywhere," she said.

"The earth wants to heal itself, it we give it a chance," said David Wise.

In 1998, Wise noted that 80 projects in the bay included 26 miles of riparian buffer work, 26 miles of stream bank fencing, and 175 acres of wetlands habitat restoration at a cost of $250,000.

The work of Pequea-Mill Creek and other projects have many benefits, noted Matt Ehrhart, restoration specialist with the Chesapeake Bay Foundation — a big partner in state restoration projects. They include habitat restoration, nutrient removal and protection of streams through buffer zones, erosion reduction (one foot of erosion per year from a stream bank equals 160-170 cubic yards of soil down the river), and overall health of the bay communities.

Since Lucas started, only 50 miles of stream bank fencing has been installed in the watershed, with more such installation to come.

State Approves Eight Farms For Preservation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently announced that the Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved easement purchases for eight farms across the Commonwealth.

"Gov. Ridge is committed to preserving the farmlands of our hard-working farm families," said Hayes, who chairs the Board. "The addition of these farms further demonstrates Pennsylvania's commitment to our No. 1 industry – agriculture."

Created in 1989, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board oversees the state Farmland Preservation Program. The program allows the state and counties to purchase development rights, referred to as easements, to guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

Including two county-owned easements accepted among the eight, to date, the Farmland Preservation Program has protected 1,075 farms in 41 counties encompassing 134,665 acres.

The eight properties, including owner, municipality, acreage and purchase cost, were.

Bucks County

William H. and Rosemary P. Garges, Warrington Township, 112 acres, $1,616,605;

Fayette County

Wayne B. and Margaret M. Brown, Bullskin Township, 106 acres, $117,027,

Lawrence County

Further, he said that education needs to become socially ingrained as something that is done lifelong, not just until finishing required courses.

He said that considering education as a temporary part of life may have been satisfactory when people's jobs didn't change much over a generation, and people worked at one job or business for their entire working career.

However, the modern work environment requires that workers be flexible and knowledgable. That means, he said, that education must be considered as something that is continuous.

The charge to parents, teachers, community and political leaders is to not shortchange youth by underestimating what they need, what they can do, and by not undermining their potential by underproviding appropriate resources and expectations.

He said agricultural education is not what is used to be, it's more sophisticated. In Pennsylvania there is to be more money directed toward agricultural education, he said, because it requires scientific, technical and cutting edge knowledge.

Further, he said that an incentive program is to provide students in grades K-12 with a better understanding of the agricultural industry.

He said the vision for Pennsylvania agricultural education is being developed and will require the cooperation between Penn State University, agricultural educators, the state Department of Agriculture and the state Department of Education.

He said that currently efforts are underway to try to put together regional standards for agricultural education, to use the World Wide Web to link classrooms, as well as working with other states for remote educational opportunities. He said that if the audience were aware of all that has been done, "I think you would be pleased with the direction."

He said there is a lot more to be done.

Hickok said that perhaps the most important issue is academic standards.

He said work is being done on state standards of achievement, so that, for the first time, a bottom line of achievement can be established.

For example, he said that in a college course, students are given a syllabus, which is an outline of the course and expectations of students. He said it helps the student and the college professor, because they can both be held accountable to each other.

What is sought, he said, are state standards for the different major disciplines. Benchmarks for standards are being set with other states, he said.

He did emphasize that what is being developed is not curriculum. That will always be at the local level," he said.

The standards will be "... what we think they ought to know to remain competitive."

Testing, he said, isn't an adequate measure of a student's ability. What it means is that a student tested well one day. "It doesn't say how proficient a student is in the subject. We want both. That is the system we're moving toward. Peformance and accountability, that's what education needs to emphasize."

He said that with the state taxpayers paying $14 billion this year for public education, the system ought to be open to improvement and public knowledge about what is going on.

He said every school district (with a population over 3,000) is being profiled by the state, and information on teaching, curriculum, courses, and "hundreds of pieces of information" compiled on each so that comparisons can be made by people.

The goal is to "reconnect people to public schools," he said.

Four years ago, the state budget had one line item for educational technology and distant learning. It was $500,000 and directed to libraries. This year with a mix of federal, state and local funds, there is to be $225 million delivered to schools for improvements in technology.

The Linked-to-Learn program has been ranked tops in the nation, he said.

"It sounds like a gimmick, but I've seen it make a tremendous difference." He said that in a small school in Clinton County the students were linked to a college and now have access to a network of educational resouces bigger than the state of Connecticut.

In another example, he said a rural physician would annually leave his practice for a week to travel for professional development. With computer technology and linked-to-learn, he is now able to achieve the same professional development without having to leave his patients without a readily available physician.

However, Hickok said, "Technology will never take the place of the classroom. The classroom is part of what makes education happen. It is a tool.

"Through the smart use of technology, we're seeing not just small, but dramatic improvements."

He described one district in which there was a 25 percent increase in math scores one year after using new technology.

Chester Conservation District Honors Members

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — Several Chester County Conservation District members were recently honored at the annual meeting of the Chester Delaware Farm Bureau here at the West Fallowfield Christian School.

Following were honored:

• The Conservation Innovators Award. This award was presented to Donald Buster Needham and family, cooperators since 1982. The family operates Hy-Tech and Menu Mate Sales. Needham has toured extensively, seeking better technology and management to handle stormwater runoff and odor control.

According to the district, Needham is a pioneer in compost operations by importing equipment to mix and hydrate material used in making compost. The company has also been innovated in minimizing odors from their operations. Hy-Tech is undertaking a horizontal silo project to force air into the compost.

At the first meeting of the mushroom growers to promote the Red/White Clay Land Treatment Program of NRCS and the conservation district, according to the district, Needham was the only representative from the mushroom community in attendance and who provided input and guidance.

• Stewardship Award. This award was presented to Knight Run Farm, Dennis Bush and family farm, West Fallowfield. The family farm has been an active cooperator with the district since 1963. Dennis Bush signed up in 1987. The Bush family has implemented best management practices such as diversions, waterways, manure storage facilities, contour strips, and nutrient management.

The Bush Family completed the Chesapeake Bay Contract in 1994. In 1984 the Bush Family was recognized with the Conservation Farmer of the Year Award. In 1998 the Bush family participated in a stream bank fencing project on Knight Run. More than 11,500 feet of stream bank fencing and five animal crossings were installed.

• Special Recognition Awards. One award went to NutraSoils, a spent compost recycling operation in the White Clay Watershed in London Grove Township. Another award went to the C.P. Yeatman Mushroom Farm.

For NutraSoils, Michael Losito and Henry Roberts purchased the Hudson Farm Fresh compost facility with the idea that it would make an excellent site to condition spent compost, according to the district. All runoff water is collected from earthen and concrete composting pads and recycled to a spray irrigation area. The spent compost is made into ricks, turned with machinery once each week. The operation produces finished topsoil in 18-28 weeks, rather than the typical two-year process of just placing it in a field to leach. This operation and others like it will process much of the spent compost that, according to the district, in many places is improperly handled, with the potential for major pollution events. NutraSoils is participating in the Red/White Clay Land Treatment Program.

Another recognition award went to C.P. Yeatman Mushroom Farm in the White Clay Creek Watershed in London Grove Township. This farm family has been a cooperator with the conservation district since March 1948, the year the district began operations. Yeatman Farm is listed as "Cooperator #5."

This farm grows organic mushrooms and field crops. Jim, Bob, and Tim have participated in the Red/White Demonstration Program and the Red/White Clay Land Program. The Yeatmans have installed best management practices such as waterways, drop boxes, piping, sediment traps, roof runoff management, runoff storage tanks, and nutrient management. This farm has always been open to neighbors, educators, and government officials who educate the public about this type of agriculture.

The Chester County Conservation Farmer of the Year for 1998 went to a plain farmer in West Fallowfield Township who completed a Chesapeake Bay contract. The farmer implemented best management practices which include stream bank fencing, protected animal crossing, a manure storage facility, a nutrient management plan, and roof runoff management. The farmer, who wished to remain anonymous, became a cooperator in 1997, but declined the recognition of the award. The board of directors will recognize his stewardship appropriately with a fruit tree.

Frecon Orchards is ablaze with spectacular blooms in the peach tree part of the orchard. Barbara Gilbert, a 30-year employee of Frecon Orchards, enjoys late season pruning on these Saturn peach trees. The Saturn peach is a freestone, white flesh peach that is shaped like a saucer with a small seed that pops out, making it quick and easy snack for children and adults.

Frecon Orchards is a family enterprise with three separate businesses. The retail outlet and wholesale growing operation is headed by Henry and his wife Torrie, at left. Teri Frecon, center, is secretary and treasurer for the enterprise begun by her father, Richard S. Frecon. Richard is retired but remains chairman of the board for the three separate businesses. An orchard supply business is run by Richard A., right.

BOYERTOWN (Berks Co.) — When Richard S. Frecon purchased an orchard in the area known as "The Fruit Basket of the World in 1944," he didn't foresee that most competitors' orchards would eventually dwindle to nothing and that Frecon Fruit Farms Inc. would blossom into a thriving three-generational business.

The survival of the 200-acre farm has not been without sweat, tears, and continual education to keep abreast of changing consumer habits.

"Our goal has always been to provide the finest fruits and vegetables grown, never to be the biggest," said Richard S. Frecon Sr., who was a fruit and vegetable inspector for the state of Pennsylvania before he settled in Boyertown.

Although retired, the elder Frecon remains chairman of the board for the three separate businesses in the family enterprise, which include the retail sales outlet that daughter-in-law Torrie oversees, the wholesale growing operation that her husband Henry manages, and an orchard supply business run by Henry's brother Richard A. A sister Teri serves as secretary and treasurer for the enterprise.

"But like any farm, we fill in wherever needed," Torrie said.

The orchards spread for miles on some of the hilliest land in the area.

"It's a bit difficult to have an orchard in such a hilly area, but the

'Willow In the Wind' Will Go To Highest Bidder

LOU ANN GOOD

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Fifty years ago, Eileen Miller was one of the first students to attend Kraybill's Mennonite School. Later she married Galen Benner and all six of their children attended the school. Today, three of the Benners' grandchildren are students at the Mount Joy school, which has grown from 31 students to 418.

Throughout the years, the school has relied on an annual benefit sale to boost its treasury, enabling students a lower price to attend the private school.

In those beginning years, Eileen's mother (Barbara Miller) headed the quilt committee.

"My mother soon discovered that if she picked out a good quilt, it would bring a good price," Eileen said.

Now that Eileen is in charge, she carries on the tradition of her mother. This year Eileen didn't need to search to find a breathtaking quilt that promises to bring a hefty bid at the school's upcoming benefit sale to be held May 7-8.

Eileen knew exactly where to look for the most stunning quilt as a special donation for the school's 50th anniversary—her daughter-in-law. Cheryl, married to Eileen's son Lamar Benner, is a quilt artist. She designs original patterns in many different styles.

The one selected for the benefit auction is called "Willow In The Wind." The contemporary-style quilt features bold, bright tropical flowers, cheerful butterflies and dragonflies, and Cheryl's trademark—a petite ladybug. The quilt explodes with joyful colors and surprising details stitched onto a muted white and beige background.

Cheryl designs quilts with so many details to applique that seamstresses recognize that her designs cannot be stitched in a rush. Cheryl has several employees who complete the applique and quilting for the commissioned quilts.

"Cheryl designs them, but she doesn't make them," said Eileen. "I wonder if she had to make them if she would put in all that detail?"

But it's the details that bring depth and life to the design. Without the detail, it would be just another quilt — not a unique, original that is recognizable as one designed by an artist and will gain in value in years to come.

People are prone to copy Cheryl's designs and claim them as their own. It's a frustration that all great artists face. Usually, the counterfeiters alter a few details and claim it as their own original, but counterfeit copies often lack balanced scale and the detail so prevalent in Cheryl's designs.

Cheryl became a quilt designer almost by accident. After she was graduated from the Art Institute of Philadelphia, Cheryl took a job with People's Place, where she designed book covers and illustrated children's book.

About 10 years ago, she was asked to design a quilt for People's Place. Her first design was called "County Love." The design took the county by storm, and it continues to be one of the most popular quilt patterns around. Since then, Cheryl has designed a series of quilts that are featured in books:

(Turn to Page B14)

Cheryl Benner designed this contemporary quilt that she calls "Willow in the Wind." Her designs are known for their detail, eye-catching beauty, and a ladybug trademark that appears somewhere in all of her patterns. Several of Cheryl's quilt patterns are published in books. Cheryl also illustrates children's books and designs fabrics.

Frecon Orchard

advantage is that we seldom need to take frost-control measures," Henry said. Good air movement pervades the hilly areas while frost settles in the low areas.

A housing development at the foothills was at one time orchards. When he reached retirement, the elder Frecon laid out a residential development. That created an increased customer base, but Torrie said, "You only keep them if you please them."

Pleasing "them" applies not only to the produce sold but to neighboring relationships. Neighbors are allowed to stroll through the orchards and walk their dogs.

Sometimes fellow orchard growers fail to recognize the philosphy of establishing good neighbors when it conflicts with the bottom line. The Frecons overheard an orchard grower touring the orchard, criticizing the Frecons for not utilizing a large area of frontage surrounding the property.

"We left open land to be a good neighbor," Torrie said. "We don't want to spray chemicals that drift onto the neighbors' (land)."

"It costs us to respect our neighbors, but it pays to keep good neighbors," Torrie said.

"People often assume that orchardists have nothing to do during the winter, but that's when we prune every tree by hand," Torrie said.

Grafting is done in March until bloom.

At this time of the year, the orchards are a spectacular sight with acres of blooming trees. Barbara Gilbert, a 30-year employee of Frecon Orchards, enjoys late-season pruning. As she pruned Saturn peach trees, Henry talked about the many varieties that the orchard grows.

"People want a large red freestone peach, so we keep trying new varieties," Henry said.

One of the most successful ventures has been planting the Saturn peach about six years ago. The freestone, white-flesh peach is shaped like a saucer with a small seed that pops out when broken apart. The peaches are sold in half-pint, pint, and quart containers instead of the usual peck and half-bushel baskets. The small, sweet peach is an excellent peach to offer samples to customers because it has no mess and the flavor is fantastic.

But the novelty peaches have a downside. The fruit is difficult and time consuming to pick and is susceptible to rot.

It's a big investment to plant trees and wait for a crop. Henry buys 2-year-old trees, plants them, and waits an additional three years for a crop. Top-grafting new varieties into established root trunk while allowing old main leaders to produce is more economical and one that the Frecons use quite a bit.

They are experimenting with drafting sweet cherries on dwarf rootstock. That would enable pickers to pick cherries from ground level rather than climb high ladders to harvest the crop.

This year will be the first harvest on the dwarf cherry trees, and the Frecons are eager to see how the concept will work. The main problem with grafting is that grafting doesn't always take.

"Trees are susceptible to lots of stresses," Henry said. "I figure a peach tree is good if it lasts 15 years. Apple trees are hardier and last about 20 years."

Torrie is in charge of the retail store. In addition to produce raised on their farm and by local farmers, Frecon Orchards Outlet offers a wide variety of unique food items and gifts. The store ships fruit baskets with specialty foods and coffees throughout the states and even to other countries.

New varieties are being released all the time, and the Frecons said the newer varieties are often better and improved over old stock.

Varieties are selected not only for taste but also to keep a continuous supply of fruit available during the growing season. Peaches are picked from July through September.

Labor problems make it difficult to meet the demands of growing 100 acres of apples, peaches, tart and sweet cherries, berries, nectarines, plums, and apricots.

In addition to the orchard, the farm plants three acres of pumpkins, four acres of sweet corn, and buys a lot to resell from other farms.

This requires manual work. In the orchard alone there is planting, thinning, pruning, and mowing between trees. The store is kept open year-round and has a thriving mail-order business. In addition to family members, employees vary from six in the off-season to 15 during peak times.

Abandoned farms surround one side of the orchard. Although the area is beautiful to look at, it creates problems for the orchard. The uninhabited area is a breeding ground for deer—a considerable pest in orchards. Deer eat young trees, the buds off trees, and rub the bark off with antlers.

Frecon Orchard

"One deer can eat 11 pounds of buds a day," Henry said of the damage.

The Frecons have tried numerous ways to discourage the deer and resident ground hogs from damaging the trees.

"Some of the ideas have been a deterrent but most don't work, and look strange," Torrie said.

At present, they are having limited success by tying soap bars on the trees. The soap is tied on at a deer's nose level and is effective for several weeks until the aroma fades.

The Frecons utilize every type of marketing possible. They sell to brokers, direct, wholesale, auctions, small wholesalers, ship by tractor-trailer to fill orders and have tractor and trailers pick up, and they provide produce to chains in the immediate area.

"Retailing would be nothing without the farm. The farm would be nothing without the retailing," Torrie said.

"I think part of the success of our operation was that we separated the farm into different corporations years ago. That gives the second and third generation more opportunity to make something for themselves. Although some years one of the corporations may be more profitable than the others, we have been fortunate enough to stay big enough to make it all pay," she said.

Torrie got her start in the business when she started working for the Frecons in the packing house and market after high school. Henry was her boss, and the couple eventually married.

He said, "If you want a good hands-on manager, the best way to hire a good one is to marry one."

The couple has been married 30 years and have four children. One has graduated from college and works in the computer industry, two are in college, and another is in high school and continues to help part time in the store.

Torrie said that she doesn't know if any of their children will continue the farm market operation.

"Profitability is not what it used to be. It's so labor intense. In reality, farming has hit a critical state with less than two percent of the population in farming," Torrie said. "It is demanding, time consuming, and employee problems are never ending.

"To be successful in farm marketing, you must love the lifestyle. You must love farming and the human race and believe that your products are worth a fair monetary value," Torrie said.

The store is located about two miles from the main farm. The produce is trucked from the farm and unloaded with forklifts. The first floor includes display, work, and storage areas. A front porch offers additional space for seasonal items such as bedding plants and flowers.

Visual displays help sell items, and Torrie works hard to create attractive displays.

In addition to produce, some of the items offered in the store are hand-dipped caramel apples, Frecon's own special-blend of cider, own name jams and jellies, fruit butters, fresh baked goods, and specialty food items.

They offer unusual snack items such as herb and cheese soup mixes, imported bread sticks, and items related to fruit uses such as a rolling pin, apple peeler machine, and pie dish.

One of their most successful ventures is packing gift baskets and boxes.

To draw in customers, seasonal highlights include giving away a Mother's Day gift basket. All mothers who shop in the store from May 1-9 can register to win. A Father's Day picnic basket is a similar give-away to fathers who shop in the store and register.

Apple harvest time includes demonstrations on using apples. Customer Appreciation Days are Dec. 15-24. Free cider, popcorn, and holiday goodies are offered to customers who stop by.

Although the Frecons see strong support in the area for homegrown and locally-grown produce, they are concerned that the majority of consumers don't seemed to be as concerned about quality as price.

In recent years, competition is more fierce with produce being shipped in from California and from international markets such as Chile.

"We like when peaches from outside the area taste good because it affects our sales. There is nothing like a homegrown fresh peach, but if someone tastes an unflavorable imported one, they are prone to stop buying peaches altogether rather than try another one," she said.

In her 30 years working in the retail store, Torrie said that they have received only three checks that weren't good. "That builds confidence in our fellow man. We have lots of satisfied customers. In this business, you always have something to do and plenty of friends and acquaintances to share a laugh."

Frecon Orchards Outlet is located ¼ mile west of Boyertown on Rt. 562, at 501 S. Reading Ave. The store is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Phone (610) 367-6200.

Ideas To Use Springtime's Rhubarb Bounty

One of the first signs of spring is rhubarb growing in our gardens. For about two centuries, enjoying the tangy, tart taste of rhubarb has been a rite of spring for many people.

Although rhubarb is technically a vegetable, it is most often prepared as a dessert. Rhubarb is also one of the best sources of calcium in the vegetable family, a rich source of vitamin A and potassium.

When buying rhubarb, select fresh, firm stems. Look for bright colors, pink or red. Avoid stems that are too large as they tend to be hollow and fibrous and lack flavor.

Rhubarb is easy to freeze. Trim and wash the stalks, cut into one to two-inch chunks. Place in a covered flat pan in the freezer until frozen. Pack in a moisture-proof bag and return to freezer.

Rhubarb season is here. Take advantage of the wonderful assortment of recipes using rhubarb such as Impossible Rhubarb Streusel Pie and Rhubarb Crumb Pie served with ice cream.

IMPOSSIBLE RHUBARB STREUSEL PIE

2 cups ½ -inch pieces rhubarb
1 cup sugar
½ cup Bisquick baking mix
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter, softened
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 eggs

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Grease pie plate. Make streusel topping, set aside.

2 tablespoons butter
½ cup Bisquick baking mix
¼ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup chopped nuts

Cut butter into baking mix and brown sugar, using pastry blender or crisscrossing 2 knives, until crumbly; stir in nuts.

Arrange rhubarb evenly in pie plate. Beat remaining ingredients with fork or wire whisk until blended. Pour into pie plate.

Sprinkle streusel topping evenly over top. Bake about 40 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm with sweetened whipped cream if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Bisquick Baking Mix

RHUBARB CREAM DELIGHT

Crust:
1½ cups flour
3 tablespoons sugar
¾ cup butter

Cream filling:
2 cups sugar
4 egg yolks, beaten, save whites for meringues
⅔ cup cream or evaporated milk
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups chopped rhubarb

Meringue:
4 egg whites
¼ cup sugar

Press crust into a 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. While crust is baking, combine all filling ingredients and cook in heavy saucepan over medium heat until thickened. Stir constantly. Pour hot filling into crust. Top with meringue made by beating egg whites until thick and adding sugar. Bake at 325 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Refrigerate leftovers.

Yields 10-12 servings.

Abram Beiler

RHUBARB-RAISIN PIE

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 eggs, separated
⅓ cup orange juice
2 cups diced rhubarb
¼ cup raisins
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅓ cup sugar
Dash ground cinnamon

Combine one cup sugar and flour, stir lightly. Beat egg yolks slightly. Add yolks and orange juice to sugar mixture, mixing well. Stir in rhubarb and raisins. Pour into pastry shell; bake at 375 degrees for 55 to 60 minutes, covering edges of pastry with aluminum foil after 30 minutes to prevent excess browning

Combine egg whites, vanilla, and cream of tartar, beat until soft peaks form. Combine ⅓ cup sugar and cinnamon; gradually add to egg whites, beating until stiff peaks form. Spread meriungue over warm pie, sealing edges well; bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Let cool. Yield: 9-inch pie.

RHUBARB CAKE

2 cups flour
1¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1¼ cups granulated sugar
½ cup vegetable oil
⅓ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 large eggs
1¾ cups finely chopped fresh rhubarb
1 cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven 350 degrees. Grease and flour 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Set aside. In a large mixing bowl, sift together flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, and sugar. Add oil, water, vanilla, and eggs, beat on low speed until well blended. Add rhubarb and beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Fold in chopped nuts. Transfer batter to prepared pan. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until tester comes out clean. Cool on wire rack frost with cream cheese frosting, caramel frosting or vanilla butter frosting.

RHUBARB PANCAKES

1 pound rhubarb
Rind of half a lemon
¾ cup sugar
4 cups flour
Pinch salt
1 egg
2 cups milk
Cinnamon and sugar mixture

Peel and chop rhubarb into small pieces. Cook in cup of water with lemon rind and sugar until soft. Drain off water. Combine flour, salt, egg, and milk. Stir in rhubarb. Fry in hot skillet until browned on both sides. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar mixture.

RHUBARB BASTE FOR CHICKEN

Whip in blender:
1½ cups rhubarb sauce

Add:
½ cup water or pineapple juice
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon dry mustard

Simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Brush over chicken during the last 15 minutes of roasting or broiling.

LaDonna Thompson

APRICOT RHUBARB JAM

8 cups finely chopped rhubarb
4 cups sugar
1 can apricot pie filling
1 package orange Jell-O

Combine rhubarb and sugar in bowl to stand overnight. In a saucepan, bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Add pie filling and bring to a boil. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Put in jars. Cover and refrigerate.

Featured Recipe

Today's featured recipe is from Rebecca Cornman, Cumberland County Dairy Princess. She is the fourth generation on the family farm called Justa-Beauty Colors in Boiling Springs.

Rebecca owns 16 animals in the family' herd of Jerseys, Milking Shorthorns, Holsteins, and Brown Swiss. She enjoys showing cattle in 4-H competitions and promoting dairy products.

The daughter of Steve and Debbie Cornman, Rebecca is senior at Boiling Springs Junior-Senior High School. Rebecca is a member of the National Honor Society, the cross country and track teams, and stage manger for the fall play and spring musical. Rebecca is also a member of her church youth group.

No matter how busy she is, Rebecca finds time to cook. "This makes a great springtime dessert," she writes.

RHUBARB CRUMB PIE WITH ICE CREAM

9-inch pie shell
2 eggs, well beaten
1¾ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups sliced rhubarb
Butter

Combine eggs, sugar, flour, and salt. Add rhubarb and mix well. Arrange in pie shell. Dot with butter. Top with crumb topping. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer.

Crumb topping:
½ cup sugar
¾ cup flour
⅓ cup butter
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix sugar, cinnamon, flour. Cut in butter until crumbly. Sprinkle over filling. Bake as directed.

When you remove pie from oven, let cool a few minutes. Cut and serve with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Did you know that you literally have to look a fish in the eye to tell whether it's fresh. The eyes should be clear and bulge a little. Only a few fish, such as walleye pike, have naturally cloudy eyes.

When purchasing a fish look for firm and shiny flesh in either whole fish or fillets. Press the fish with your finger; if it leaves an indentation, it's not the freshest. Dull flesh may also mean the fish is old. Make certain there is no darkening around the edges of the fish or any brown or yellowish discoloration, especially if these areas appear dry and mushy.

If you're still uncertain about how fresh the fish is, ask that it be rinsed under cold water—and then smell it. Fresh fish should have no fishy or ammonia smell.

The shells of hard clams, mussels or oysters should be closed, or should close when their shells are tapped. The necks of steamer clams should twitch when their shells are tapped Crabs should move when touched. Lobsters' tails should curl under their bodies when (carefully) picked up.

When buying frozen fish, select packages that are not open, torn or crushed on the edges. Avoid packages that are above the frost line in the store's freezer. If the package has a transparent cover, look for signs of frost or ice crystals. Crystals could mean that the fish has either been stored for a long period or thawed and refrozen. Also, there should be no evidence of drying out, such as a white or dark spots, discoloration or fading of red or pink flesh

One other point. Don't buy cooked seafood like shrimp, crab or smoked fish if they're displayed in the same case as raw fish They're good candidates for cross-contamination—and a bellyache

Nose around—even at home—Ben Franklin said that "fish and house guests begin to smell after three days." He should have said two days—at least for fish, for it's unwise to keep unfrozen fish any longer than that. In fact, those fresh fish that are subject to scombroid poisoning—for example, tuna, bluefish and mahi-mahi should be used within 24 hours of purchase. Here are some other points to consider.

- Refrigerate or ice fish as soon as it is caught or brought home and keep the fish at 32 to 37 degrees Fahrenheit.
- Before refrigerating, remove the fish from its package, rinse under cold water, and pat dry with paper towels. To keep cleaned fish more than 24 hours, place the fish on a cake rack in a pan, fill the pan with crushed ice, and cover tightly with plastic wrap or foil. Rinse the fish daily, cleaning the rack and changing the ice.
- Throw out fish with a strong fishy or ammonia smell
- If you intend to keep the fish more than two days, freeze it immediately after it's been caught or purchased. Rinse it under cold water, pat very dry with paper towels Wrap tightly in plastic then in aluminum foil before putting it in the freezer Plan on using the fish as soon as possible for best quality.
- Always thaw frozen fish and seafood in the refrigerator.
- Store live oysters, clams and mussels in the refrigerator Keep them damp by covering with a clean, damp cloth or moist paper towel, but don't place them on ice or allow fresh water to come in contact with them. Never place in an airtight container because it will kill them.
- Keep freshly chucked oysters, scallops, or clams in their shells and store them in the coldest part of the refrigerator It's also a good idea to surround the package with ice
- Store live lobsters and crabs in the refrigerator in moist packages (use seaweed or damp paper strips), but not in airtight containers, fresh water, or salt water Lobsters should remain alive for about 24 hours

Maryland Dairy Princess Search

FREELAND, Md. — The Upper Chesapeake Dairy Princess Committee is searching for contestants for its annual pageant. The Upper Chesapeake region covers Baltimore, Harford, and Cecil Counties.

To enter the regional contest, candidates must be the daughter of one of the following: a dairy farmer, a dairy farm manager or herdsman or someone employed in a dairy-related industry (farm store, dairy cooperative, DHIA supervisor, feed supplier, veterinarian, milk inspector, etc.) Or candidates may also be employed as one of the above or the owner of at least one dairy animal or enrolled in dairy foods project in 4-H or FFA.

Contestants must be between the ages of 16 and 22 years by Dec. 31 of the contest year. The dairy princess selected will make school and grocery store promotions, speak to farm and non-farm groups, sporting events, fairs, and appear on radio and television. Regional princesses participate in a training seminar in July and compete at the state pageant later that month.

Dairy maids between 13 and 16 years of age are also needed. With the exception of age, dairy maids must meet the same requirements as a princess.

For more information or an application, contact Sarah Bedgar, P.O. Box 66, Freeland, MD 21053. Phone (410) 357-4296, seb@wam.umd.edu. Application deadline is May 1.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Tricia Grossnickle, Frederick, Md., would like to know if any of the readers know of a recipe for a dessert called Johnnie Bowl. Tricia remembers her grandmother made it for New Year's. The dessert is a pudding-like cake with raisins wrapped in cheesecloth and boiled. The dessert is served with a sauce.

QUESTION — Terri Laskowski would like a recipe that tastes like Pizza Hut's pan pizza.

QUESTION — Connie Becker, Cato, N.Y., would like recipes for quart-jar soup mixes that are layered and given as gifts. She appreciates the recipes that were printed for Sand Art Bars, Quart Jar Cookie mixes, and canned breads and cakes. Any other food gift ideas or similar recipes not previously printed would be appreciated.

QUESTION — Send in a recipe you learned to make from your mother. Include a few sentences about your mother and we will print it with our annual Mother's Day Tribute on May 8. But, hurry, submissions must be received by May 3.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, would like recipes for using shitake mushrooms and portabella mushrooms.

QUESTION — L. Hoover, Denver, would like a recipe for marinated chicken or turkey breast.

QUESTION — N. Koons, Lebanon, would like recipes for jellies. Hers often are not thick enough.

QUESTION — Luella Staver, Red Lion, would like to know how to make crisp dill pickles. Hers always get mushy in the canning jars.

QUESTION — G. Minkle, Wayne, would like a recipe for hot pepper cabbage relish, which she had clipped from this column several years ago.

QUESTION — D. Shultz wants to know how to store water in containers without it going bad. She heard adding a few drops of bleach, but what is the ratio of water to bleach, and is it safe to drink or can it only be used for other purposes.

QUESTION — Diane McDonald, Langhorne, would like a recipe for chicken pot pie soup.

QUESTION — Ruthie Fisher, Mifflin, would like recipes to make saltine crackers and wheat crackers.

QUESTION — K. B., York Springs, would like a recipe to make rotisserie chicken that tastes like that made by Rutters' Mini Market.

QUESTION — Carrie Sponseller, Gettysburg, would like a recipe for Snow Flake Cookie mix in a jar. It includes white chocolate chips and macadamia nuts that are layered in a quart jar.

QUESTION — A reader, who has a Whisper Mill Grain Grinder, would like some other readers' favorite recipes using fresh ground flour such as barley, rice, spelt, rye, etc. She would like ideas to include a variety of grains in the family's diet instead of wheat, wheat, and wheat.

QUESTION — Several years ago, J. Rouse clipped a recipe from this section for maple syrup pork chops. Her family loves the recipe, but she lost it. Anyone else clip the recipe? Send it in so we can reprint it.

QUESTION — Linda Garber, New Ringgold, is looking for recipes for vegetable cream cheese to spread on bagels.

QUESTION — Ben S. Stoltzfus, Honey Brook, would like a recipe bran muffins that tastes like the Sara Lee brand.

QUESTION — Madeline Raub, Easton, would like to know where to buy a round biscuit shaped like a basket with a fluted edge. She thinks the biscuits had been made by Nabisco and sold loose by the pound. Her mother used them at Easter to make "bird nests" by putting icing inside and colored jelly beans.

QUESTION — Lester Horvath, Washington, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pickled ring bologna.

QUESTION — Mrs. Dale Burkhart, Narvon, misplaced a recipe for a seasoning mixture to rub into beef roast before roasting. She recalls that some of the ingredients included instant coffee granules, beef bouillion, salt and pepper.

QUESTION — Dave Akins recipes to make chicken wings and nuggets with breading seasonings that stick to the meat. thanks to an anonymous reader who writes that this recipe came from a cooking demonstration by York Hospital dieticians.

Homemade Breading

4 cups packaged cornflake crumbs
4 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
4 teaspoons paprika
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 tablespoon Italian herb seasoning
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon onion powder

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Place in airtight container. Mix well before each use. Plan on ½ -1 tablespoons of the breading for each piece.

Thanks to Joanne Zimmerman, Newville, for sending two recipes.

Chicken Wings

20 chicken wings, discard wing tip and cut the rest of the wing in half. Wash and drain well.

Mix together the following:
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon dried oregano
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon garlic powder
2 teaspoons salt (optional)

Dredge chicken pieces in flour mixture covering completely. Deep fry for 3-4 minutes until lightly browned. Drain on paper towels. Mix together:
1 cup melted margarine
1 cup hot pepper sauce

Dip browned chicken into mixture, coating all sides well. Place on baking tray and bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 minutes or until crispy.

Chicken Nuggets

3 or 4 large chicken breasts, skin, debone, and cut in chunks
½ cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Mix and spoon over chicken. Marinate 3-4 hours.
¾ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Mix thoroughly. Lift chicken pieces from milk, letting excess drain off. Coat with flour mix. Fry in deep fat for about 5 minutes or until golden brown. Serve as a main dish, snack or appetizer.

16-ounces Perma Flow
3-ounces phosphate
2-ounces speed cure

Stuff and bake at 180 degrees for six hours.

ANSWER — In response to the request for Thousand Island dressing, Pat Smith, Watertown, N.Y., sent a recipe from the heart of the Thousand Island vacation area on the St. Laurence River in northern N.Y. Pat said that it is reported that this recipe originated with a chef at one of the luxury summer resort hotels that were once prominent in the Thousand Islands.

Thousand Island Dressing

1 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
⅓ cup catsup or chili sauce
Juice from ½ lemon
¼ cup thinly sliced green onion or chopped sweet onion
3 or 4 sweet gerkin pickles, chopped
1 hardboiled egg, chopped

Blend first three ingredients thoroughly. Gently stir in remaining ingredients. Serve on wedges of iceberg lettuce or mixed fresh salad greens.

Rhubarb Bounty

RHUBARB CRUNCH

Mix until crumbly:
1 cup flour
¾ cup uncooked oatmeal
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cover with four cups diced rhubarb. Combine the following:
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
1 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Press half of crumbs in a greased 9-inch baking pan. Add diced rhubarb. Combine second mixture and cook until thickened and clear. Pour over rhubarb. Top with remaining crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. This is delicious served warm with milk—a family favorite. Makes 8 servings.

We also like to use this recipe and substitute apples for the rhubarb. When using apples, reduce in half the sugar for the cooked mixture as well as the crumbs.

RHUBARB WHIP

1 pound rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces
½ cup sugar
¼ cup water
3-ounce package strawberry flavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup whipping cream, whipped
Fresh sliced strawberries

Combine rhubarb, sugar, and ¼ cup water in medium saucepan; mix well and bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Cover and cook over medium heat 8 minutes. Add gelatin and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat; stir in ½ cup cold water, and chill until mixture is slightly thickened. Beat on high speed of electric mixer until light and fluffy; fold in whipped cream. Spoon into serving dishes, and chill 30 to 45 minutes. Top with strawberries. Yield: 6 servings.

Carrying Food?
Think Food Safety

It's a little early to think about picnics and cookouts, but those kinds of family activities will be happening sooner than we think! One way to assure that the outdoor fun won't be spoiled with spoiled food is to assure that you have done everything possible to keep food safe during preparation and transport.

One way to do this is to assure that you have the proper utensils. This leads to the concept of a portable kitchen, which contains commonly used kitchen items that can be easily transported and used for camping and at other times when food preparation and transportation must be done in less than ideal situations.

Here is a list of items that can be included in your portable kitchen: apron, baking sheet (10 by 14 inches), biscuit cutter, bottle opener, bread knife, can opener, chef knife in sheath, colander, cooling rack, cutting board, dial timer, dish detergent (in packets), dish towel and dish cloth, dishpans, dishwashing scrub pad, dry ingredient scoop, egg timer, foil or plastic wrap, funnel (small), grater, hair cover, jar opener, kitchen scissors, ladle, loaf pan, masher, measuring cups (dry), measuring spoons, mixing bowl or small stockpot, muffin tin, paper towels, paring knife in sheath, pastry blender, pie server, place setting (knife, fork, and spoon), pot holders, potato peeler, rolling pin, rubber bands, rubber scrapers, slotted spoon, soap and washcloth (or moist towelettes), spatula, strainer or sieve (small), tongs, trash bags, vegetable brush, wax paper, wire whisk (or rotary beater), and wooden spoons. If you have extra space, you might add: citrus reamer, liquid measuring cup, pie pan, saucepan, skillet, and a 9x13 or 8x8-inch pan.

Jan Scholl, associate professor in agriculture and extension education, has developed a wonderful pamphlet on efficiently packing and carrying the items in a portable kitchen. Essentially, small items are packed inside the larger containers so they are not jostled in transport. For safety and to prevent dulling, shield all sharp objects such as knives. To secure the various parts, wrap a large thick rubber band, available in packing supply stores, in several directions around the entire kitchen. It can be placed inside another container like a box or suitcase, or even a cloth tote bag. Secured with the large rubber bands, it can even be carried "as is" without being placed in any other carrier. A copy of the pamphlet "Portable Kitchen" is available at your local extension office.

Carry food and other supplies in a separate container. Wrap them carefully and insulate them to prevent food spoilage and sanitation problems by ensuring that hot foods remain hot and cold foods remain cold. Just following this basic rule will keep picnickers and outdoor chefs a lot less likely to get the food poisoning "bug."

After unpacking the kitchen, pour hot water and detergent into one of the dishpans and hot rinse water into the other. Clean the counter or other work surface before you start, too. Filling both dishpans in advance also helps you to wash and rinse the utensils as you work. If you plan to use the bowl to transport food after you have prepared it, carry a bowl cover of some sort to keep insects away from the food and your car clean. For many other tips on assembling and using your portable kitchen, get a copy of the pamphlet — it will make your summer a lot nicer and safer if you must prepare or transport food!

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Diane McDonald, Langhorne, wanted a recipe for potato soup. Thanks to Sue McKinsey, Windsor, for sending a recipe.

Potato Soup

1 medium onion, chopped
8-10 potatoes, peeled, diced
2 stalks celery, chopped
1 stick butter
Salt and pepper to taste
Water
1 to 1½ -quarts milk
8-10 hard boiled eggs, chopped
Leftover mashed potatoes or instant potato flakes

Cook onions and celery in butter until soft. Add potatoes and just enough water to cover. Cook until potatoes are soft and start to thicken cooking water. Add enough milk for however many servings needed. Add eggs. Cook until hot but do not boil. To thicken, stir in leftover mashed potatoes until smooth or stir in instant potato flakes until smooth and of the desired consistency.

ANSWER — Laura Snyder, Akron, Ohio, wanted recipes for hot rice. Thanks to Sue McKinsey, Windsor, for sending this recipe.

Rice Pilaf With Peas

8 slices bacon
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 cups regular long-grain rice
2 10-ounce packages frozen peas
1 small can mushrooms, chopped
2 cups water
13¾ -ounce can chicken broth
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

In 12-inch skillet over medium heat, cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon to paper towels; when cook enough to handle, crumble and set aside. Pour off all but ¼ cup bacon drippings from skillet. Add chopped onion to skillet and cook until tender, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir rice, frozen peas, water, chicken broth, salt and pepper and mushrooms into mixture; heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low; cover and simmer, about 20 minutes. In serving, toss rice mixture together with the reserved bacon. Transfer mixture to warm serving dish and place into oven to keep warm until ready to serve.

A Cold, Hard Life

Even in April the temperature in the Arctic usually stays below -22°, and the ground stays frozen all year Arctic wolves are one of the few animals that can handle these conditions

Because of the weather conditions, food is scarce Sometimes, the wolves have to go without food for days When they do find food no part of the animal is wasted Arctic wolves will eat the fur, skin, bones and meat on the animals they catch They can eat up to 10 pounds of meat at a time

The wolves usually hunt lemmings and Arctic hare, but their best catch are caribou and musk ox

Arctic wolves usually live in small family groups called packs A pack includes an alpha male wolf and an alpha female wolf and their cubs from the last two or three years

During the fall and winter, Arctic wolves move around In the spring, pregnant females find a den to have cubs in Wolf cubs are born deaf, blind and helpless After a month the cubs can eat meat and the whole pack helps feed them

Milk Matters

(NAPS)—You can "choc" it up to experience, but an increasing number of parents are discovering that the way to get children to drink more calcium-rich milk is to offer them chocolate milk.

Once moms and dads learn how nutritious chocolate milk is they may be eager to put chocolate milk mustache smiles on their family's faces.

Kids love the taste of chocolate milk. In a recent national survey among 600 children ages 8 to 13, more than three-fourths said they liked the taste of chocolate milk and 39 percent said they would drink more milk if it were chocolate.

While the taste of chocolate milk appeals to kids, it's the nutrition label that appeals to parents. Chocolate milk provides essential nutrients including calcium, protein, vitamin D, vitamin A, vitamin B-12, potassium, phosphorus, riboflavin and niacin.

New dietary recommendations call for children to consume 800 mg per day for 4- to 8-year-olds and 1300 mg per day for 9- to 18-year-olds. That translates into about three to four servings of milk or milk group foods every day. One eight-ounce serving of chocolate milk provides 300 mg of calcium.

Chocolate milk now comes in whole, reduced fat, lowfat, fat free and sugar free versions

What are ant cows?

No, they aren't miniature cows. Ant cows, officially called aphids, are herded, though, in an odd kind of way.

Ants eat an extremely wide range of foods, from bread crumbs to plant leaves. Some species of ants get much of their food from liquid sugar that is excreted by other insects. (There are thousands of different kinds of ants.)

Aphids stick their piercing mouth into a plant and suck out its sap If there is a lot of water in the ground, that water pushes hard on the plant's stem. Once the aphid makes a hole in the plant's stem, the extra pressure pushes out a lot more sap than the aphid can digest. For some reason, the aphids keep eating the sap and excrete the excess. This excess is called honeydew, and it's rich in the nutrients that ants need to live.

So where does the farming come in? Some ants want honeydew so much that they raise aphids. These ants will tend aphids for food, just like people tend to cows. Although not all aphids are raised by ants, they still have the nickname "ant cows."

Certain species of ants will collect the eggs of aphids and protect them during the winter. When the eggs hatch, the ants will raise the larvae, or immature aphid, until it is big enough to collect food. The ants find ideal eating places for the aphids and move them from plant to plant.

The aphids benefit from this relationship, too. The ants protect the aphids from natural enemies like the lady beetle. And, some aphids are so dependent that they cannot find plants to eat on their own. Or, even worse — they get stuck in their own honeydew and die!

Every morning, as the sun was rising, you could count on it.

Every evening, as the sun was setting, you could count on it. Again.

A honking sound would echo across the meadow. Moments later, the honking would sound overhead, as the pair of geese soared over the yard. Once they cleared the house, the big birds would begin "braking" and then descend into one of the contoured strips of cropland that circle around our north hillside. There, the pair would graze for some length of time on the early grasses pushing up in the fields.

Before the sun shinnied up too high in the sky, or complete darkness settled over the meadow, the pair of Canada geese would again take off, make a quick circle overhead and glide back down to the pond.

This went on for several weeks, with such dependability one could almost set a clock by their intra-farm flights. In between their dawn/dusk field trips, the two geese lounged on the pond bank and grazed on the lush growth in the meadow. Actually, most of the time it was the female grazing, while the big gander kept watch.

Often, our lone resident goose, permanently disabled from making lengthy flights, hung around nearby the pair. As the male of the breeding pair became increasingly territorial, the inevitable squabbles erupted. Our single bird would take refuge back with it's "flock" — the cows — where he/she spent most of the winter.

March came and went. The pair showed little more than passing interest in the mid-pond nesting platform. Last year, that nest was full of eggs and the hatch already underway by the last week of March. And usually, the endeavor gets started at the very latest during the first week of April. But the warm, balmy, early April came and went. But the geese showed little interest in anything but gorging on grass.

We began to wonder. Was there some problem here? Did the geese know something about the season we didn't?

I glanced at the pond frequently during those early days of the month. Nothing.

Finally, one morning the goose returned from their flight to begin rooting around the dry grasses on the platform, while the gander patrolled the surrounding water. Next day, same performance. And again, the next. But, a week later, the nest was still unoccupied.

By then, pretty chilly weather had returned. If the goose was laying eggs, at least they were staying well-chilled.

Late last week, on a trip around the ponds to check out the growth progress of the shrubs and trees he had planted a year earlier in the pond-wetlands area, The Farmer made a surprise find.

"We have a goose nesting," he announced one evening last week. "Down in the Frog Pond."

The Frog Pond is a shallow, swampy area, where we often walk at dusk on warm evenings to hear the frog chorus sing. ("Singing" is a polite word for high-decibel croaking racket.) A few years ago, he had added a tire-nest site for our wild waterfowl, but got no takers. Now, unexpectedly, it was occupied by a stranger.

And by what we have reason to believe is a long-awaited mate for our lone-injured, resident goose.

He also noticed that the regular nesting site in the big pond was finally occupied. One day we had no nests, the next there were two And a pair of mallards cruising the ponds as well

We drifted by on the four-wheeler the next day for a peek at the Frog Pond's new feathered resident. She slid off the nest and came hissing at us. We hastily departed.

One gander is now patrolling one pond, defending his turf. The other, likewise, on another pond. Several times a day, splashing water, flapping wings, and irate honkings announce aerial attacks from one side against the other. If nothing else, the territorial defenses are a source of irritation to the great blue heron which dines here almost daily (or did before the nest squabbles) on our fish and frogs.

That oughta' give those frogs something to croak about.

Bread Recipe Rises From Living History Re-enactment

DAVID HIEBERT
Northumberland Co.
Correspondent

WEST OVERTON (Northumberland Co.) — Living history encampments bring life to bygone eras.

Encampments are popular at West Overton Museum, a Westmoreland County tourist attraction and the birthplace of coal baron Henry Clay Frick.

People who participate in encampments research the era they are portraying and often take on the identity of a deceased individual. The goal is to recreate an authentic character and represent what the person might do in all situations, such as in clothing, meal preparation, and informal conversation.

Chris Sediak, Slovan, is a Civil War living historian reenacting with the 9th Pennsylvania Reserves Company 1861-1865. Sediak said that the elite company from Pittsburgh was called into federal service in 1881 from what was then known as Allegheny City.

Sediak said that encampments are a form of education that gives one a lot more appreciation for the times and helps one feel as if one is really living in the 19th century.

In addition to reenactments for the public, historians offer living history to school groups, especially to those studying about the Civil War.

Food is needed at the encampments. Historians try to devise authentic food typical of the Civil War Era. At one of the encampments, bread was made in the West Overton Museum's beehive oven.

Barbara Bachman, Mt. Lebanon, said that hickory wood provides a hotter fire to heat the oven.

The bread recipe is an adaptation of a sourdough recipe used by pioneer families. In the orginal version, sourdough would have been used instead of yeast. Potatoes were used often because they were a readily available starch.

Bachman said that the recipe was handed down from her mother-in-law May Denver Backman.

Here is the recipe used.

Beehive Oven White Bread

2 or 3 potatoes the size of hen's eggs
1 cake compressed yeast (1/2 of a large cake or 2 packages)
4 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup lukewarm liquid mixture
12 cups flour (more or less)
1 tablespoon salt
3 tablespoons lard or shortening
Egg white (brush on top to brown)
Hickory wood for fire

Cook potatoes and mash using the water in which they were cooked.

Reserve 1/2 cup of the water, add 1 tablespoon sugar and the yeast.) Strain. Heat to luke warm. Add yeast to a little potato water. Mix in some flour then add salt and melted lard. Mix in more flour to make a dough stiff enough to knead

Knead until smooth – 10 minutes is about right Place in a greased container and keep warm Allow to double in bulk (about 1 hour) Knead back to original size Form loaves in pans. Let rise until double in size.

Start baking 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Increase to 425 degrees until golden, or use constant temperature of 375 degrees

Outside the summer kitchen at West Overton, Beber, Bidwell; Barbara Bachman, Mt. Lebanon; and Bab Stoffel, Monongehela; ponder how much food it will take to feed the whole encampment anticipated. Photo by David Hiebert.

Our smallest baler comes with BIG features

Our Model 638 Roll-Belt™ round baler is the smallest in the line, but it has the same features and functions as New Holland's larger balers. You can count on dense, uniform 4-ft.-by-4-ft. bales every time.

- Roll-Belt design makes uniform bales weighing up to 750 lbs.
- Requires a minimum 40 PTO hp tractor
- Single-arm twine system reduces wrapping time by applying two strands
- Road/trailing lights are included

Fluff 3 windrows in one pass

You'll cover acres fast, and bale or chop sooner with the Model 169 tedder. It uses six rotors to ted a wide 22'8" area. That's wide enough to fluff three windows from a 9' mower-conditioner. Yet transport width is a narrow 9'8" for easy maneuvering. The frame of the "169" is fully articulated, so it hugs the ground to fluff all of your crop for fast drying. And the Digidrive coupling provides smooth, reliable operation.

Beat the weather with the Model 169. Stop by for details.

'Willow In The Wind'

"Country Love," "Country Songbird," "Country Lily," and "Country Paradise," published by Good Books and available at bookstores. The patterns designed by Cheryl in these books can be copied and used without infringing on copyright. Cheryl has also illustrated numerous children's books.

As her expertise became known, Cheryl's work became more and more requested. Now a freelance artist, she often designs commissioned and limited edition quilts for individuals and companies. She also designs fabric patterns for a company and draws the delightful scenes pictured on the Turkey Hill ice cream containers.

For some of her commissioned quilts, Cheryl is asked to follow a theme. Other times, the decision is left totally to her.

"I like everything I do. I design Victorian, contemporary, masculine—all styles," Cheryl said. "They are all different and I have no preference."

After Cheryl sketches the design and cuts out each template, she selects the fabric. "Choosing the colors is perhaps the most fun. The templates are the most tedious," she said.

The queen-sized quilt to be sold at the auction features a tree, which, by coincidence, happens to be the theme of the school's history. The book that recounts the school's 50-year history, "A School Grows in Donegal, The Story of Kraybill Mennonite School," will be released in time for the benefit auction. The book was written by Elaine Good, Lititz. Elaine was a former teacher and her husband was a former administrator of the school. Copies are available for $20. She will be autographing the book during Auction Days. The book also includes local history of the Kraybill Mennonite Meetinghouse, which was located on the site of the school in the early 1700s.

Elaine Good holds a copy of the book that she has written about the history of Kraybill Mennonite School and about the church where the school originated. Elaine will autograph books during Auction Days.

After three generations, Eileen Benner's appreciation for the Kraybill Mennonite School has grown. She started out as a student, her five children attended the school, and now her grandchildren Nichole, 11; Tyler, 7; (parents are Dean and Jennifer Benner); and Courtney, 6 (parents are Kevin and Holly Noll) attend. For many years Eileen has been in charge of selecting quilts for the school's annual benefit auction. This year she is donating this quilt, designed by her daughter-in-law Cheryl Benner, to be sold at the school auction.

Another item to be sold at the sale is connected to the Benner family. These are limited edition prints of the "Benner Barn," located on the Leola farm where Eileen's husband Galen was born and raised. Gary Hiller, who is also director of development for the school, painted the original two years ago.

The barn is featured in the book "Old Barns." The Benner barn was considered one of the oldest barns in the county until the 1970s, when it was dismantled stone by stone with the intentions of rebuilding for a tourist attraction. The barn was never rebuilt because of the lack of funds by the company that had purchased it. The Benner family doesn't know where the barn's remains are at this point.

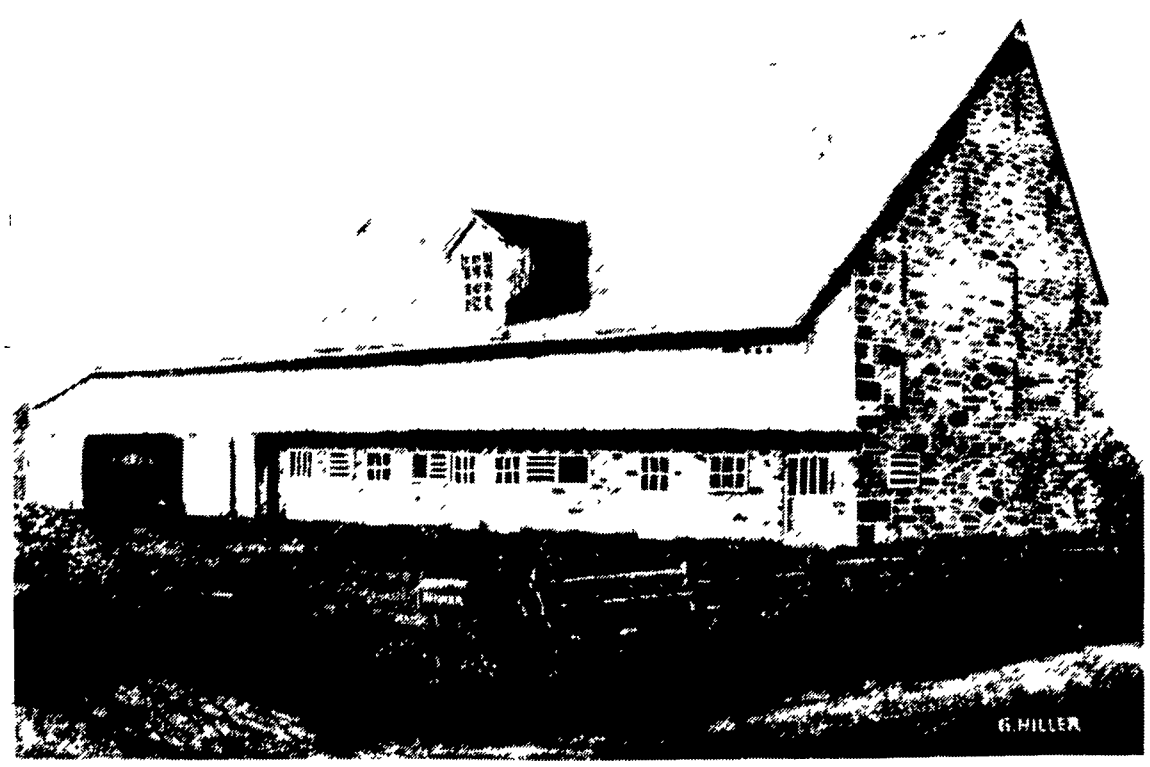
"The painting is excellent—it looks just like the barn did when it was standing," Eileen said.

In addition to the Benner quilt, 20 other quilts plus several wall hangings will be auctioned beginning at 1 p.m. on May 8. Of interest to collectors is a "Hershey Parchment Quilt," which is a replica of the Milton S. Hershey quilt that was made for his wife, and other designs known as the Mariner's Compass, Contemporary Japanese Rinds, Biblical Quilt, Flowering Star, and appliqued Partridge in a Pear Tree.

Auction Days opens Friday, May 7, with a southern-style pig roast served from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Antiques, collectibles, and fine art will be auctioned begining at 6:30 p.m. Craft items will be prepriced and offered for sale on both Friday night and through Saturday.

On Saturday, May 8, the day will begin with a country breakfast served from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. The general auction begins at 8:30 a.m. Outdoor items will be auctioned at 9:30 a.m. Specialty items at 11 a.m. The quilt auction begins at 1 p.m.

Auction Days will be conducted at the Kraybill Mennonite School, Kraybill Church and Gibble roads, Mount Joy. For more information, call (717) 653-5236.



Limited edition prints of the Benner Barn painted by Gary Hiller will be auctioned to benefit Kraybill Mennonite School.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Dimock Community 4-H Club

The Dimock Community 4-H Club met April 9. Robert Squier opened the meeting.

The club sang a song called "Super 4-H'er."

Jessica Squier led a game called "Over and Under." Ben Hibbards, Phillip Fields, and Kyle Karpich told about their air rifle and air pistol projects.

After official business was completed, Mrs. Karpich taught the members how to plant flower seeds. The club will use the flowers in their beautification project as a community service.

At the next meeting on May 14, the members plan to make soda bottle rockets and launch them (providing the weather is good).

Farm Women

Berks Society 3

Berks County Farm Women Society 3 met recently to hear a guest speaker talk about women in crisis.

In February, the society held a pound auction. Each member brough something wrapped in red usually weighing a pound. Everyone was happy and the money was donatd to the American Heart Association.

The March meeting was held at the home of Agnes McKenna. Members held a dime pitch for the March of Dimes and enjoyed singing Irish songs with Sonja Moyer, a guest accordian player.

The Expanded Food Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) recently conducted its annual meeting to recognize people and coordinating agencies that helped the program reach more than 300 families this past year. Staff members who teach food and nutrition to limited income families from left are Michele Thomas; Wendy Bedford; Brenda Stallman, unit coordinator; Susan Fisher, extension home economist; Anita Rhawn; and Chris Valentine.

Enter Dairy Recipe Contest

June Dairy Month is almost here. That means it is time to enter Lancaster Farming's annual Dairy Recipe Drawing.

To enter the drawing, select your favorite recipe, which must include a substantial amount of at least one dairy product. Dairy ingredients include milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, dry milk, ice cream, and all hard or soft cheeses. The recipe can specify either whole, low-fat or non-fat dairy products.

Please check your recipe ingredients carefully. Margarine and non-dairy substitutes such as whipped topping do not qualify as dairy products.

Dairy recipes are needed for appetizers, soups, breads, entrees, vegetables, desserts, beverages, snacks, and salads.

Clearly print or type your recipe. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. We reserve the right to disqualify entries if these guidelines are not followed.

The difference between this contest and the weekly recipes is that your are asked to include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, a photograph of you or with your family adds a wonderful touch to accompany the printed submission. Photos will be returned if you write your name and address on the back of the photo.

Only one entry per family allowed. This contest is for adults who are 18-years-old or older, not children. Send your recipe, photo, and accompanying information with your complete address. If we do not have your complete address, we cannot mail your prize if you win.

Send entries immediately. Envelopes must be postmarked by June 1 to be eligible for the drawing. Winners will be selected through a drawing and will be sent a prize. Look for a picture of the prizes in upcoming issues of this paper. Winners will be announced in the July 3rd issue of Lancaster Farming.

Send entries to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

Tractors are used for more than plowing during the annual Plow Day. Here John Gouge provides a hayride for enthusiastic passengers by using a John Deere 430.

Plow Days Bring Back Memories

WEST GROVE (Chester Co.) — Sons, fathers, grandfathers and daughters had fun plowing with old tractors during the annual Plow Days held at the Gouge Farm recently.

"You can see old tractors at a lot of different places, but we old-timers like to hear them," John Gouge said of the reason for holding the annual event on his farm.

"It used to be that at night you could hear tractors on fields miles away. But today, you can only hear stereo noise from cars racing up and down the road," Gouge said.

He misses the calming effect of the putt, putt of tractors. So do other members of the Waterlou Boys Two-cyclinder Club of Southeastern Inc.

Bob Shephard drives his John Deere H during Plow Day held on the Gouge farm in West Grove, Chester County.

Gouge and members bought their favorite tractors to again experience the thrill of hearing the sound and maneuring the old tractors across the field. They plowed 24 acres with 23 tractors within a four-hour time period.

"The city boys only plow two-inches deep, but the old-timers plow 10-inches deep," Gouge said. For this reason, it will be necessary "to straighten" the ground with a chisel plow.

The oldest tractor at the Plow Days was a 1935 John Deere B on steel. The newest tractor allowed was a 1960 John Deere 730.

QUESTION — A reader is looking for an oversized tin scoop for a small candy scales. She has all the weights but needs a 10-14-inch scoop to make the scales complete.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know an appropriate charge to rent out a 4,000 square foot barn. Another reader sent in ideas to change the use of the barn. She suggests converting the barn for use for laying hens because some people like barnyard eggs. Feed with good alfalfa to produce a dark yoke. She writes that years back, they put chickens in their tobacco barn. They put windows in the south side, used the cellar to cool eggs, and the stripping room to clean and grade eggs. Put chicken fence or tobacco rails with loose straw over it for a ceiling. Floor boards should be tight or dirt goes in cellar.

ANSWER — Lucinda Martin asked why all their spring frogs will disappearing from the pond. Another Lucinda Martin, New Holland, said that tiny spring peepers look for fishless ponds to safekeep their eggs and their minuscule selves from hungry predators.

Karen Mull, Elizabethtown, writes that she planted bullrushes in pots and set tall plants at different spots where she placed tadpoles. Now she has lots of frogs and toads because they like to hide in tall weeds rather than be in the open. She has also noticed that frogs like the sound of running water and collect nearer to the sound of water.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to purchase a scales weighing 30-50 pounds, the kind that are no longer legal for trade and not the hanging or the electronic style. A reader writes that he has a Country Store scale made by Sanitary Scale Co., Chicago, IL. It has a marble platform to place items to be weighed. If interested, call him at (717) 334-1279.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know where Quincyville, Pa., is located. Thanks to Amos, M., who writes that he could not locate this town in DeLorme's Pa. Atlas, but there is a town named Quincy located in Franklin County, between Chambersburg and Waynesboro. Could this possibly be the place.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Pictures! They seem to play an important part in my life. I only take a few films each year, but I always have some 50 to mark each time. Our youngest daughter often has six or seven films at a time to be developed.

My mother had a camera in 1910 and took pictures in her community which I prize. She even printed some herself with a kit that she purchased. Some of her pictures have been used in recently published books. And, one of my great uncle's pictures, of him on a binder, was printed in a large calendar. I've been privileged to contribute to publications.

The camel-back trunk that sits in the diningroom has thousands of big and little pictures. Each year our children posed for Christmas cards and those 20 some are special. Other pictures in the trunk are very old photos of homesteads. On these pictures not only a house and barn are shown but also the nine members of the family. Some men are standing at the barn doors while the women lean against the white-washed fence.

My great uncle took many pictures of Lancaster houses, of building roads and also of markers along the Mason and Dixon line. Stone mile markers were also an interest of his and showed the mileage between towns and cities.

So, today when I receive photos, I mark them with names and dates. Then they are put on six piles to be mailed to our children. Hopefully they will be put in albums and stored for future generations to enjoy.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Open Youth Schooling Horse Show

Backtrackers 4-H Horse and Pony Club of Northampton County is sponsoring an Open Youth Schooling Horse Show Saturday, June 5 at the Northampton County 4-H Center, Nazareth, starting at 9 a.m.

This show is open to any youth between the ages of 8-19 years. It will offer walk-trot, open, jumping, and fun classes throughout the day. Each class is $5 per class or $20 per five classes. All entrants are required to wear a hard hat in all classes. Release forms and a rabies certificate are required before entry into the show.

This show is offered as a learning experience for the youth of the area. It will be an informal show—appropriate riding boots and hard hats are required. No T-shirts are allowed; not, but not formal dress required. Entrants will receive help and encouragement throughout the event. Ribbons and awards will be given in each class.

There are age restrictions on certain classes and restrictions throughout divisions in the show. This allows all exhibitors an opportunity to participate and learn.

For more information concerning this show, call (610) 837-7294.

Plants Fantastic: Exotics, And Only Exotics, Imbue Birdsboro Greenhouse

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

BIRDSBORO (Berks Co.) — In this greenhouse, the "oohs" and "ahhs" were palpable.

"It's like a different world," said Barbara Livezey, Tulpehocken Junior High School health and physical education teacher. "You almost have to ask someone to remind you of where you're at."

Livezey, who was looking at a dwarf burrows plant hanging in a subtropical greenhouse, accompanied more than two dozen other Berks County teachers last week on one of several tours of retail florists and nurseries as part of the county's popular Ag In The Classroom Seminar.

Barbara Livezey, Tulpehocken Junior High School teacher, inspects the stridently interwoven, long strands of the rat-tail cactus, which bears big, red flowers, one of the most "common" of the exotic cacti.

One orchid Mutschler is particularly proud of is the Dracula Orchid from Ecuador. Mutschler said the orchid grows in the entrance to caves in the western South American country.

Mutschler's Florist and Rare Plants not only has an extensive greenhouse filled with tropical plants, but also a sprawling outside compliment of winter-hardy cacti and a good complement of ponds — 28 in all, managed by employee Jeff Jackson. Bob Mutschler instructs the tour group at the largest pond, measuring 15 feet by 30 feet and is three feet deep, constructed six years ago.

This time, the teachers witnessed the beauty and wonder of the thousands of exotic plants at Mutschler's Florist and Rare Plants on Perkiomen Avenue near Birdsboro.

Some members of the tour group branched off, winding their way through the greenhouse — a place that seemed literally torn out of the rain forests of Brazil, filled with more than 25 varieties of orchids, exotic cacti, plants from Africa, Ecuador, and varieties of species unseen and largely unheard of in a "typical" Pennsylvania nursery.

"We avoid the 'common' as much as we can, and we find it works for us very, very well," said Bob Mutschler, who has operated the four-acre nursery with his wife, Elsie, for 11 years.

Teachers on the tour would repeat, almost like a canon, that for years they drove by the exotic greenhouse, not knowing it even existed just off Rt. 422 a few miles east of the Rt. 176 interchange.

Nursery sales are 90 percent retail and 10 percent wholesale at Mutschler's. The nursery supplies all fresh-market plants and flowers and some silk. The nursery decorates for weddings one day a week and performs landscape work on a small basis, perhaps 2-3 per year.

Mutschler said they recently completed an entirely "desert" landscape for a local resident. Another one "was totally oriental in design," he said. "It was really exotic.

"We don't accept the 'normal' types of jobs," he said.

Mutschler has taught for more than three decades at the Western Center for Technology Studies and has taught plant properties at Penn State and orchidology at the University of Florida.

The nursery not only has an extensive greenhouse filled with tropical plants. It also has, sprawling in varous places in the outside display area, winter-hardy cacti and a good complement of ponds — 28 in all, managed by employee Jeff Jackson.

One pond measures 15 feet by 30 feet and is three feet deep, constructed six years ago.

Outside, near a small storage area greenhouse, towering bamboo sprouts from an area used during classes conducted regularly by the nursery. Gary Coller, Reading High School teacher and a director of the Wilson School district, looked over the bamboo.

"I'd like to have bamboo growing at my place," Coller said.

Outside, the grounds are covered with all sorts of exotic plants to fill specialty landscapes. Near the nursery sign, visible from Rt. 422, are towering weeping cypress, Deadohara, along with exotic outdoor plants in a wide varieties, including cedars, weeping blue spruce, and "a lot of contorted things," he said.

Inside, the greenhouse is filled with what the orchard expert said are "dozens and dozens of orchids — tons of orchids," said Mutschler. The small, viable business sells no annuals or 'normal' arborvitae, said the grower.

Mutschler held up one exotic plant, taken from Mount Kilimanjaro in Africa — Alpine Aloinopsis, a winter hardy plant that looks like an African violet, with a Zone 4 hardiness.

"We get these things from all over the place," said Mutschler. "We have tons of suppliers."

The nursery boasts 100 cultivars of water lily, bonsai, hosta, shade ferns, and lots of exotic variety of flowers, including columbines, philodendron of wildly huge size and shapes (one that smells like a dose of peppermint, he said, for a time), and more than 20 varieties of winter-hardy cacti.

Outside, near the ponds, there are about 20 varieties of native bamboo, common to the eastern U.S.

Inside offers more of a treat.

Near the greenhouse glass, sun pours in onto a large selection of orchids. One plant Mutschler is particularly proud of is the Dracula Orchid from Ecuador. Mutschler said the orchid grows in the entrance to caves in the western South American country.

Another he holds up is the more flowery, whitish Dracula "Cookies and Cream" variety.

Another is the Phargmapedium, affectionately known as the lady's slipper orchid.

Mutschler pointed to one of the strangest of the plants, the female turtle plant, from Mexico and Africa, resting on the floor. Related to the sweet potato, the turtle plant has "one of the highest testosterone contents of any plant on earth," he said. "But you shouldn't eat it."

Throughout the greenhouse, the sounds of exotic birds from all over the world are "virtually" introduced by way of compact disc.

Barbara Livezey, Tulpehocken Junior High School teacher, inspected the stridently interwoven, long strands of the rat-tail cactus, which bears big, red flowers, one of the most "common" of the exotic cacti, according to Mutschler.

"This is unbelievable," she said.

Mutschler's employs about 11 people at the height of the busy summer season and 2-3 full time. In the future, the adjacent barn, now used for storage, will be renovated to accommodate more gift shops and classes, which the nursery conducts regularly.

Hours for the nursery are Monday-Saturday, 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday 1:30 p.m.-5 p.m. For more information about the nursery, call Mutschler's at (800) 242-9438 or locally, (610) 582-0662.

Near the nursery sign, visible from Rt. 422, are towering weeping cypress, Deadohara, along with exotic outdoor plants in a wide varieties, including cedars, weeping blue spruce, and "a lot of contorted things," said Mutschler.

Travel With a Purpose
Mennonite Your Way
Canadian Rockies & Northwest US
June 19 - July 15
The majestic Canadian Rockies will inspire you. You'll see Lake Louise, Snowcoach ride on Columbia Icefields, Butchart Gardens & many sights in between: the Mennonites of BC and Hutterites of S. Dakota, the Passion Play, Yellowstone, Glacier, Olympia & Mt. Rushmore Parks. A special surprise — Parks Guide, Kent Kauffman will be our interpreter and story teller. It's a real treat to have him join us for the rocks and rills segment of this tour.
Pick up points in western PA, Ohio, Indiana/Michigan, Illinois and Montana fly-in option.

Barenbrug BG-34. A superb blend of late maturing, winter hardy diploid perennial ryegrass varietes noted for their persistence, disease resistance and high digestibility. This blend is the rage of the Netherlands for beef and dairy pasture grazing. All the ingredients of Barenbrug's BG-34 have been rated by the Netherlands government as achieving the maximum ratings in tests and trials. BG-34 is a very heavy producer under high fertility and moisture. Long leaves, short stem. Easy to mow and chop. Winter hardy. Endophyte free. BG-34 is late maturing, perfect for farms with heavy Spring wet soils. BG-34 is the best the Netherlands has to offer its cattle farmers. It's high digestibility increases milk and meat production.

Cows 'stripgrazing ' the pasture with the Alice White Clover

ALICE White Clover. The grass really benefits from the Nitrogen being fixed and released by the ALICE White Clover It is estimated that the ALICE White Clover fixes up to 200 units of Nitrogen per acre Another remarkable thing is noted by the above photo: the strips without the ALICE White Clover do have some spots with some volunteer white clover. At those spots the grass does not show increased production at all, and the cows don't even like it. This proves the point that improved varieties like ALICE White Clover fix much more Nitrogen than the traditional white clovers and that it is more palatable. The picture also shows that cows really love the grass with the white clover, giving a new meaning to the work 'stripgrazing'.

Characteristics of ALICE White Clover;
Very palatable • High Nitrogen fixation • Good winter hardiness • Large leaves • Tall vigorous growth • Performs extremely well under grazing management

BARIDANA a late maturing winterhardy Orchardgrass with excellent grazing characteristics BARIDANA was developed in continental Europe (Czech Republic) and it has been tested under severe conditions It has proven to withstand severe winters, but also is capable of coping with dry and hot summers If mixed with white clover (Alice) and or Chicory (Forage Feast, Puna) those pastures will become excellent summer producers allowing to graze or hay during dry periods in the summer Compared to the industry's standard (Potomac) BARIDANA has several advantages Later heading • More palatable • Higher digestible • More winterhardy • Higher yielding BARIDANA is also very suitable for intensive grazing or cutting Its primary use will be the Midwest and the Northeast of the United States BARIDANA is also very suitable for hay production with yields of up to 7 tons of DM per acre BARIDANA orchardgrass is well suited for mixed seeding with alfalfa's, since it is winterhardy and late maturing They can be planted at the same time since orchardgrass is not to aggressive in its establishment This results in a nice combined stand and does not complicate the harvest window

Keystone 21 Project Announces Grant Awards

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co ) — Keystone 21, a partnership between Cheyney University of Pennsylvania, Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the former Commonwealth Educational System, and the Rodale Institute, has awarded mini-grants to three projects designed to foster collaborative food system educational programs

One of 14 W.K Kellogg Foundation projects across the nation that collectively form the Food Systems Professions Education Initiative, Keystone 21 aims to meet challenges created by the rapid changes occurring in the food system by developing innovative formal and non-formal educational programs

The following proposals and collaborating organizations have been funded

• "Agricultural Career Exploration" will demonstrate the large array of career opportunities in agricultural and the food system through the development of educational materials and programs aimed at students, teachers and guidance counselors

Materials will focus on careers, skills, technologies and educational requirements for six broad areas: food technology, agribusiness, plant sciences, natural resources, animal sciences and agronomy/soil sciences Selected students and teachers will take four-day study tours to production sites to learn about business operations and interact with professionals and employers in various fields Development of educational videos, lesson plans, CD-ROMs and a Web site•also will be explored Collaborators: Penn State Cooperative Extension in Clarion and Venango counties and Penn State Public Broadcasting.

• "Cool Facts About Food Safety· A Food Safety Education Campaign for Pennsylvania Elementary Students." As part of this project, food safety action teams will visit elementary schools to teach kindergarten through fourth grade students food safety concepts by performing a skit titled "The Adventures of Patty Melt and Friends."

Each presentation will emphasize the four "Cs" of food safety. cool it, clean it, cook it and don't cross it. Teachers will also receive a comprehensive guide to help them integrate food safety education into their science, language, art, social studies and health curricula In addition, students will receive food safety activities sheets that reinforce the campaign's messages Collaborators· the Pennsylvania Beef Council Inc. and Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences

• "Why We Eat What We Eat: A New Course on the Science and Culture of Food" will encourage first-year college students to think critically about the linkages between food history, science and culture. The course will be designed to promote understanding of how biology and culture interact to affect food choices, nutrition and health, food economics and politics; to help students appreciate ethnic and regional cuisines and the value of alternative food systems; and to enhance students' ability to formulate novel solutions to food system problems by incorporating sound biological, historical and cultural perspectives

These goals will be accomplished through sensory experience with food, readings that integrate science and society issues, and direct experimentation with food properties. Collaborators. Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and School of Hotel, Restaurant and Recreation Management.

Projects receiving mini-grants are funded for up to 12 months in amounts up to $7,500. To be eligible, projects are required to be collaborations between two or more Keystone 21 partner organizations, or between a Keystone 21 participant and an outside agency o· organization.

Keystone 21 is acceptin applications for its next round of mini-grants. The application deadline is June 15, 1999.

For more information, contact Elise Gurgevich, Keystone 21 project coordinator, at (814) 865-0114, send e-mail to PAFSPE@psu.edu, or visit the Keystone 21 site on the World Wide Web at http://www.cas.psu.edu/docs/CASPROF/keystone21/keystone21hm.html.

GEHL Model 2365

10' Cut In Stock For Immediate Delivery

Also Model 2345 9 Foot Cut In Stock

Long hood for less wind turbulence for cleaner cutting in thin crop stands.

A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.

Rugged high-speed cutting discs, spinning at 3,000 rpm, easily slice through down and tangled crops or dense wet undergrowth to deliver a clean cut

The cut crop is delivered to Gehl's specially designed intermeshing rubber conditioning rolls for thorough, yet gentle crop conditioning They'll condition your crop for fast drying

ONLY FROM GEHL
The gear driven cutterbar (outlined in white) is protected. Gehl shields the cutterbar from rocks or other field obstructions with full-width skid shoes.

Easily replaceable disc drive assemblies. Drive stations can be removed individually for quick servicing. Bearings are sealed in grease The patented Protectadrive™ system protects the cutterbar gear train from damage in the event of disc contact with major field obstacles.

STRIVING TO PROVIDE TOP QUALITY USED EQUIPMENT

She just freshened - How long until she reaches her peak?

Reduce the chance of milk fevers and DA's by targeting each ration to each group of cows. The NDA Vertical Mixer will allow you to cut and blend long-stemmed hay (large or small, round or square bales) with all other feed stuffs, making a palatable, easily digestible ration for your just-fresh cows By starting with lots of hay in the mix, then gradually reducing the hay until they are on full feed, you will get them to peak production faster, and improve your bottom line.

On The Mark, Get Set, Grow!

The 6100 Series Rigid And Vertical Fold Planters.

Precision farming starts with precision seed placement And that's exactly what you'll get with the White 6100 Series planters. Our pull-type planters feature an exclusive air-metering system that's designed to singulate every seed Its low air pressure, edge-drop seed discs and short, 18" seed drop ensure precise seed placement for maximum germination

Adaptable To Any Tillage Situation.
Our 4, 6, 8 and 12 row planters have the flexibility to meet most tillage practices both now and in the future. They're built rugged with a massive 7" x 7" frame and strong, welded-tongue design to handle the demands of heavy residue. Add a 6900 splitter attachment for interplant capability.

This season get the planter that places each seed where it'll grow the best — and perform the best Stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today

Mow and condition worry-free

It's easy with the "1411" Discbine® disc mower-conditioner. The "1411" gives you the perfect combination of mowing reliability, conditioning quality and no-hassles servicing.

- Independent modular cutterbar – eight disc modules are sealed in their own oil and connected by independent drive shafts for easy maintenance or repair
- 200 hours between disc gearbox oil changes – twice as long as most other models
- Mows through thick, tangled and wet crops
- Plug-free performance – no stopping or raising the header for slugs

Give yourself some peace of mind with the Model 1411 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner.

GEHL

PROVEN PERFORMER

Scavenger® Spreader

Gehl's Scavenger® Spreader delivers the performance you need year after year, with increased durability and outstanding application control. All thanks to the following features.

- Heavy-duty round core auger with segmented paddles to blend manure Powered both up and down to ram through heavy loads and break up bridging
- Special "V" tank design to handle solid, heavy bedded, semi-solid, self-leveling and liquid manure
- Adjustable auger and expeller speeds spread more types of manure.
- Variflow™ discharge featuring square-tooth expeller paddles for smooth,e ven spreading at the rate you choose
- Improved drive system with heavier final drive chains and enhanced idler system

One Tough Box Spreader

Gehl Box Spreaders deliver outstanding performance in a variety of materials. Available in four sizes to match your operation.

- Excellent spread patterns in a variety of materials
- 12-year warranty on sides and floor
- High-density polyethylene flooring is virtually indestructible
- Options include: hydraulic remote control, hydraulic drive, hydraulic endgate and liquid side extensions.

REAR DISCHARGE FINISHING MOWER

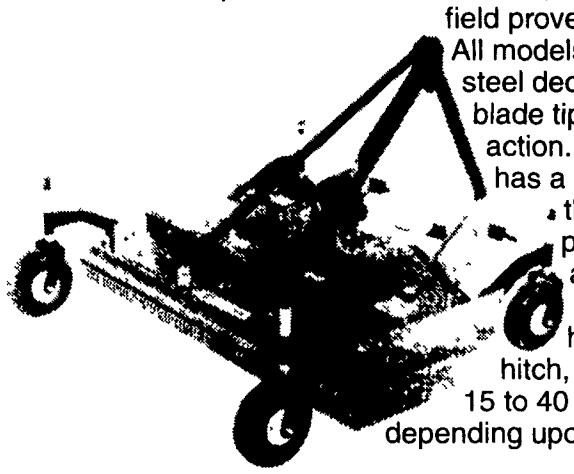
One of Bush Hog's growing line of Finishing Mowers, the RDTH Series Mowers are available in a choice of 60 or 72-inch cutting widths. Cutting heights from 1-1/2" to 6-1/2", in 1/2" increments. Blades overlap 1-1/2" for a cleaner cut, and the spindle design is field proven for dependability.



All models feature rugged, 7-gauge steel deck construction and high blade tip speeds for finer cutting action. The heavy duty gearbox has a 2-year limited warranty, and the rear discharge design provides an even discharge and distribution of material. RDTH mowers attach with a handy 3-point, Category I hitch, and are recommended for 15 to 40 horsepower tractors depending upon models selected.

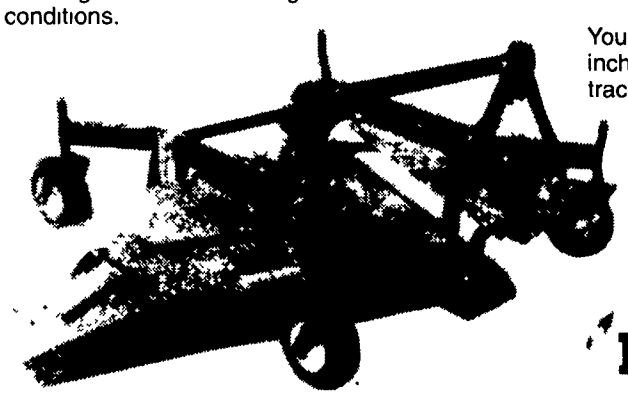
THESE LAWN CARE MOWERS MAKE GRASS CUTTING A PLEASURE

With Bush Hog's ATH Air Tunnel Finishing Mowers, cutting large lawns is fast and easy. Adjustments are minimal and simple to perform, and these mowers give you all the features you'll need to tackle heavy grass and uneven terrain. Heavy, 7-gauge steel deck plate, floating top linkage and lower link allow uniform cutting. High blade tip speeds and 1-1/2 or 2-1/4 inch blade overlap assure clean cutting. The high volume discharge chute flexes to allow mowing in heavier or damper conditions.



You can select a 60, 72 or 90 inch model to match your tractor and cutting needs.

Come in and learn more about how Bush Hog's ATH Mowers can take the chore out of cutting big lawns.

BUSH HOG

YOUR KEY TO HIGH-YIELD SEEDBEDS

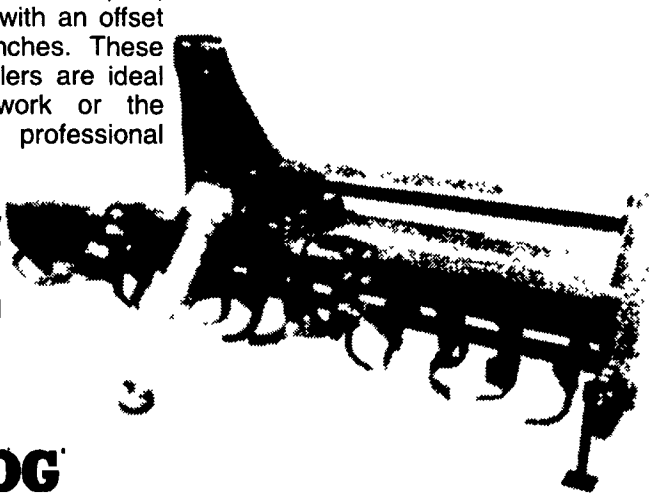
RTS-Series Rotary Tillers From Bush Hog are available in 38, 50, 62 or 74-inch widths with an offset range of 6 to 12 inches. These rugged chain drive tillers are ideal for home garden work or the demands of professional nurserymen.



Come in and see how these economical tools give you faster, more economical seedbeds.

BUSH HOG

YOUR BEST CHOICE FOR ALL MEDIUM DUTY CUTTING JOBS.

Bush Hog's 280 Series Rotary Cutters are proven winners for cutting pastures, and all general purpose cutting jobs. These rugged mowers feature a one-piece formed deck construction and a cutting capacity of 2-inch diameter. A round blade holder and slip clutch are standard equipment. Free-swinging, uplift steel blades with high tip speed assure a clean cut, and rugged construction throughout means added durability. The Bush Hog 280 cutters are available in 5, 6 or 7-foot cutting widths.

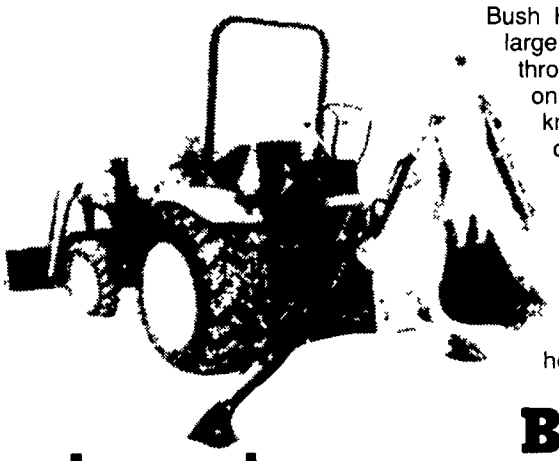
BACKHOES DESIGNED FOR PERFORMANCE AND COMFORT



Bush Hog Series 62 Backhoes feature a larger operator platform with a walk through design. The control console is only 7-1/2 inches at the operator's knee. Boom and dipperstick are heavy duty, with reinforcing plates at all high stress points for long life. These backhoes are available in digging depths of 7, 8 and 9-feet. All new hydraulic control valves provide smoother operation with 40% less lever effort. Valves located under the platform to reduce heat and noise on the operator.

Logging Survey Opens Up Opportunities For Change

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As millions of acres of Pennsylvania's oaks and hickories — last harvested at the turn of the century — near maturity, timber harvests are accelerating.

But to ensure a continued harvest, we need to use sustainable methods, said an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"From 1976 until the most recent inventory in 1989, timber removal jumped from 800 million to nearly 1.2 billion board feet per year," said James Finley, associate professor of forest resources. "Now, a decade later, removal probably is even higher. But to sustain the resource base, it's urgent that we take care of the residual forest and plan for forest regeneration with every harvest."

Pennsylvania produces more hardwood lumber than any other state in the nation. The state also produces the highest volume of select species, including cherry, red oak, white oak, sugar maple, and yellow poplar.

"With increased harvesting, we're seeing shifts in species composition," Finley said. "Red oak has been replaced by red maple – a less valuable tree – and white-tailed deer often make it difficult to establish a new forest with desired species. At the turn of the century, when today's forest started to grow, less than 500 deer roamed the state. Now we have 1.2 to 1.4 million deer, and each of those deer is eating a lot of little trees."

Deer browsing often removed desired forest plants, allowing ferns, grasses and other woodland plants to cover the forest floor, competing for light, moisture, and nutrients.

To determine how current timber harvesting practices are affecting the state's timber supply, Finley and a team of natural resource professionals examined data from 97 recently harvested tracts. Looking at such factors as number of tree seedlings, deer browsing, damage to residual trees and amount of fern or grass cover, they found that practices used at about half of the sites were not sustainable.

"The project presented opportunities to improve harvesting practices," said Finley. "For the first time, we had a diverse group of professionals — from industry personnel to environmentalists — working to attain consensus about what factors constitute a sustainable harvest."

The team identified six sets of variables associated with sustainable forest harvesting, including species composition, tree diameter distribution, crown closure (related to shading), regeneration, site disturbance and tree damage. "We now have the tools to go out to a site and say, 'If you treat a stand a certain way, you will get a certain outcome,'" said Finley.

The team also learned that using the Best Management Practices (BMPs) for Pennsylvania forests, published by Penn State, will promote regeneration and the retention of quality forests for future Pennsylvanians. The BMPs were developed in 1996 by a group of professional natural resource managers, forest landowners, scientists, environmental organizations, and other citizens concerned about the state's forests.

"The American Forest and Paper Association's Sustainable Forestry Initiative of Pennsylvania now uses the BMPs in their logger education program," said Finley.

For more information on BMPs, see the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences publication, "Forest Stewardship Best Management Practices for Pennsylvania Forests." Single copies are available free of charge from your county Penn State Cooperative Extension office, or by calling to College o Agricultural Sciences Publications Distribution Center at (814) 865-6713.

Workers' Compensation Safety Group Returns Dividend

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — For the second consecutive year, Agri-Services Agency (ASA) has declared a substantial dividend for farmers enrolled in its workers' compensation safety group in Pennsylvania.

Participants in the ASA Safety Group have seen workers' compensation costs drop by more than 50 percent since the beginning of the program only five years ago, announced ASA President Craig Buckhout.

"Farming remains a dangerous occupation, and the Agri-Services Agency Safety Group has taken important steps to monitor and help reduce the incidence of occupational injuries and illnesses," said Buckhout. "Many of the safety group's participants are receiving as much as 25 percent dividends on their discounted premiums, which is a direct result of the diligent safety awareness and cost control efforts of the program."

At the recent Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg, ASA presented Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. with a symbolic check for $265,195, representing the dividends returned to agricultural employers in Pennsylvania.

"Efforts by Agri-Services Agency were helpful in creating safety groups under the State Workers' Insurance Fund. These efforts have been successful in educating Pennsylvania farmers about the need for safety, and in turn, are saving them money through discounted rates on their workers' compensation coverage. This is an excellent effort on the part of Agri-Services Agency, and has resulted in a big cost savings for Pennsylvania farmers," said Hayes.

Buckhout reported that the Agri-Services Agency Safety Group continues to grow rapidly as a result of the value that it is bringing to agricultural employees.

Workers' compensation coverage is among the many competitively priced insurance programs offered through ASA, which has been providing insurance programs to the agricultural communities of the Northeast for more than 30 years. As an agricultural insurance specialist, ASA also provides health, dental, life, disability and long-term care insurance. For more information on the wide array of coverages available from ASA, call (800) 654-8840.

MARKETING MEAT GOATS

Meat goat production is gaining popularity in many areas of Pennsylvania. Goats are gentle, easy to control, and adapt well in situations of limited resources. The demand for goat meat by the East Coast ethnic population makes goat meat very marketable.

Goat kids are usually marketed at four to five months of age or before weaning. Some marketing options may consist of direct marketing off the farm, supplying goat meat to a specialty market such as a holiday or ethnic group, or producing kids for a commercial marketing firm. Success is often a reflection on how well a producer tends to all aspects of breeding, health, management, and marketing. All these factors have their respective role in producing and marketing a quality product.

In addition to direct marketing to ethnic groups, there are two other potential niche markets for goat meat: target markets serving health-conscience consumers wanting low-fat diets and the restaurant trade serving ethnic or gourmet foods featuring goat meat. These markets are largely untapped and can provide some real opportunities, especially for producers within the immediate radius of these markets.

Like goat's milk and cheese, the meat is unique in flavor and palatability. It is leaner than many other red meats and usually less tender. However, its leanness has a place in today's demand for meats with less fat.

Goat meat is termed either cabrito or chevon, depending on the age of the goat at slaughter Cabrito (Spanish for "little goat") is from kids slaughtered within the first week after birth. Its main use if for barbecue meat, and is highly sought after by certain ethnic groups

Chevon, on the other hand, is from older goats, yet kids slaughtered near to or after weaning. Of these two meat-types cabrito is the more tender Older (mature) goat meat is used primarily in processed meats such as goat sausage, frankfurters, bologna, and chili concarne.

Spring Chores For Shepherds

Following are ideas that every shepherd should consider this spring.

• Fertilize your pastures Pasture is crop just like corn or soybeans. In order to remain productive a pasture must be fertilized every year, preferably twice a year. Without fertilizer to keep pasture grasses strong, weeds and grazing will eventually degrade the pasture until it is no longer productive. In the absence of a soil test, a good rule of thumb is to fertilize with 500 pounds per acre of a 10-10-10 fertilizer in the spring and again in the fall.

• Deworm the flock. Internal parasites are the number one health problem in sheep You should be on a regular deworming schedule of 4-5 times per year. We like to worm sheep just prior to putting them on new pasture. This helps control the spread of these parasites Remember to rotate worm medications. Don't just change the name of the wormer but make sure it is a different family of medication. If in doubt, check with your veterinarian

• Call your shearer. Don't wait until the last minute to have your sheep shorn. If the weather turns very cold and wet immediately after shearing, provide shelter for a couple of days. After that, there is enough wool growth to protect them. Sheep in this area should be sheared by mid-May.

Rodent Control In Swine Facilities

Rats and mice can be a major economic threat around swine facilities. They consume and contaminate feed and cause feed losses through the gnawing of holes in feed sacks and wooden bins. They may also be responsible for maintaining or spreading swine diseases.

House mice, Norway rats, and roof rats as a group are considered the most troublesome and economically important rodents in the United States. Norway rats will undermine the building foundations and concrete slabs. Roof rats and house mice, in addition to Norway rats, are particularly destructive to building insulation.

Most common types of insulation including rigid foam and fiberglass are susceptible to rodent damage. A rodent infestation can damage structures by thousands of dollars in a matter of months. Additionally, rodents may gnaw on electrical wiring causing equipment to malfunction, power outages, and potentially dangerous short circuits.

Droppings, tracks, burrows, pathways, and fresh gnawings, including rodent-damaged feed sacks, indicate areas where rodents are active. Around swine facilities, insulated walls and ceilings are common nesting locations for rodents, especially mice.

Effective control involves sanitation, rodent-proof construction and population reduction. Reduction techniques include trapping, poisoning, and fumigation.

Effective Fence Tips

For effective animal control, wire spacing is more important than fence height. More animals go through and under fences than over them. Proper wire spacing makes your fences more effective.

Regardless of how many wires your fence has, always position one wire at the should height of the animal to be controlled. This is the "nose wire that your animals see and touch when they approach the fence Other fence wires should be spaced according to the type of animal· 10-12 inches apart for cattle and horses, 6-8 inches for sheep and goats. The bottom wires should be closer together than the top wires

Fences taller than 48 inches aren't really necessary In many countries, livestock fences are seldom more than 42 inches tall Electric fences can be even lower — 36 inches for cattle and horses and 30 inches for sheep and goats. Shorter fences also allow closer wire spacing.

Multiflora Rose

The weed multiflora rose is an increasing problem in Pennsylvania pastures and noncropland. It thrives on idle land, fencerows, and low maintained, hilly pastures Originally introduced from Asia and promoted as a "living fence" to control erosion and provide food and cover for wildlife, multiflora rose quickly spreads and is considered a noxious weed in Pennsylvania and surrounding states.

Once multiflora rose is introduced, its aggressive growth can rapidly overtake desirable land, forming a dense, thorny thicket within a few years. Although the weed spreads mainly through seed dispersal by birds and other animals, it also spreads by layering. Layering occurs when the tip of the cane, or woody stem, touches the ground, forms a shallow root system, and generates a new shoot. Mature shrubs can grow 9 to 12 feet wide and 6 to 10 feet tall, producing many arching, thorny canes. Generally, the large compound leaves are each composed of seven to nine leaflets. Multiflora rose blooms during late May or June, producing up to several hundred white or pinkish flowers in clusters throughout the bush. Each flower yields a small, round fruit (hip) that changes from green to bright red upon maturity and contains seeds that can remain viable in soil for 10 to 20 years

Noxious weed laws in Pennsylvania and other states require landowners to manage problem weeds, including multiflora rose. One-time control tactics are generally inadequate. Combinations of preventive, cultural, mechanical, biological, and chemical methods must be utilized to eliminate multiflora rose.

For information on multiflora rose control practices, contact your local county extension office and ask for "Penn State Agronomy Fact #46."

Bt Corn Hybrids Round Out Cargill Product Line

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Four new Bt corn hybrids round out the Cargill Hybrid Seeds European corn borer-resistant hybrids. All Cargill Bt hybrids compared favorably to other Bt hybrids and conventional corn in 1998 test plots

"We now have a complete product offering across most maturity groups," said Dr. Dan Froehlich, Cargill agronomy services manager. "The Bt hybrids performed very well in head-to-head trials against competitive hybrids and Cargill non-Bt hybrids with similar genetics."

In addition, Cargill will introduce limited seed quantities of hybrids that stack the Bt trait with tolerance to Liberty[1] herbicide from AgrEvo USA

The four new Bt hybrids are "additional ammunition in the war on bugs," Froehlich said

Following are the hybrids

• 4021Bt A 100- to 102-day hybrid with very good early vigor and drought tolerance Tall and attractive, 4021Bt responds well to high fertility and moderately high plant population.

• 4521Bt. Adapted to all soil types, 4521Bt performs best at medium to high planting populations. This 104- to 106-day hybrid would be the preferred choice if late planting is necessary and makes and excellent companion to Cargill 3677 and 6303 hybrids, Froehlich says.

• 6521Bt. Sharing many traits with Cargill 6303, this hybrid is again having a consistent top-performing year. Excellent stalk strength, drydown and fast emergence gives this shorter-statured, 110- to 112-day Bt hybrid the winning edge.

• 7521Bt. A medium-tall, 112- to 114-day hybrid with excellent late-season plant health. Excellent standability allows for a wider harvest window

Two new Cargill hybrids combine resistance to European corn borer with Liberty Link[1] technology.

• 5021Bt/LL A 106-107-day hybrid, 5021 Bt/LL shows outstanding early vigor, yield potential and ear flex It's an excellent choice for conventional tillage and no-till systems

• 7821Bt/LL This 114- to 115-day hybrid has top-end yield potential at moderate populations due to outstanding ear flex, and excellent standability and test weight

In Cargill product evaluation plots and research trials, the four new Bt hybrids yielded as well or better than popular Cargill non-Bt hybrids 3677 and 4111.

"High yield potential is important," Froehlich said, "because prevention of yield loss due to corn borer is what justifies investment in the Bt trait, even in a year when corn borer pressure is relatively light."

According to information released by AgrEvo, Bt hybrids will net the producer an additional $3 to $5.63 per acre, assuming the price of corn is between $2 and $2.50 per bushel and low European corn borer infestations cause only 3.5 percent yield loss.

Cargill 6521Bt averaged 188.3 bushels per acre against 182.1 bushels per acre from Pioneer 3489. That's a yield advantage of 6.2 bushels per acre and additional gross income of $7.19 per acre, Froehlich said.

Cargill 4521Bt equaled Cargill 4220Bt in performance and matures two days earlier.

In 1998 strip trials, Cargill 7521Bt averaged 186.7 bushels per acre against 182.1 bushels per acre from Pioneer 3489. "The 4.6-bushel yield advantage represents $3.41 more gross income per acre," Froehlich said.

"These trials clearly show the benefits of planting Bt corn. Especially high-performing Bt hybrids that outyield the competition.

For more details, producers should contact their Cargill Hybrid Seeds dealer.

Snowy Day Brings Large Turnout To Snider's Horse Seminar

LEMASTERS (Franklin Co.) — The 8th Annual Snider's Elevator Inc. Horse Seminar was held recently, despite eight inches of snow. More than 100 people attended the event held at the Lemasters Community Center.

Introductions were made by Susan Snider, marketing manager of Snider's Elevator Inc. The first speaker, Dr. Colleen Wilson, is a researcher for Farnam Companies, Inc. A resident of Arizona, Wilson has formulated many products for Farnam, including Maxflex and Performax. Wilson discussed the older horses and their needs for supplements. The audience was invited to ask questions.

The second speaker, Heather Heider, discussed horse feeds. Heider, a Southern States equine feed and tech representative, discussed the nutritional needs of senior horses. The audience asked questions during Heider's presentation. Many people in the room are owners of senior horses. Also, Heider discussed proper feed management from birth through maturity.

Door prizes were given out before the end of the seminar. A month supply of free horse feed, compliments of Southern States, was given out to two winners. The winners were Bill Nutwell of Clear Spring and George Brindle of Chambersburg. Donations were accepted for the Franklin County Therapeutic Riding Center. Also, some horse grooming supplies were donated.

Bovine Somatotropin Effective Over Multiple Years

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A recent study by Cornell University animal scientists Dr. Dale Bauman and Dr. Robert Everett establishes the effectiveness of Posilac®, bovine somatotropin (BST) in on-farm settings over multiple years.

"Beginning in 1994 with the commercialization of Posilac, supplemented herds produced the equivalent of eight to 12 pounds more milk, per cow, per day, for each animal supplemented with Posilac," said Bauman.

The eight-year study compared 340 northeastern commercial dairy herds: slightly less than half supplemented with Posilac and the remainder, a control group, managed by producers who had never purchased a dose. Comparing Northeastern Dairy Herd Improvement (DHI) data with Monsanto Dairy Business records, the scientists concluded that supplementation with Posilac significantly and consistently increased milk production throughout multiple years.

In addition to determining the sustained response to Posilac, the study also compared average days in milk, average age in the herds, somatic cell counts (SCC), and the levels of fat and protein content between herds supplemented with Posilac and the control herds.

"Both parameters — average days in milk and average age of the herd — remained consistent between the control herds and the herds supplemented with Posilac," said Bauman. "This indicates sound reproductive performance and continued cow health for herds supplemented with Posilac throughout the four-year study."

Additionally, the findings demonstrated herds supplemented with Posilac exhibited no change in the pattern of SCC across the lactation, and were at a similar SCC level. The post-approval period SCC score averaged 106,000 for the control group and 113,000 for the BST group. The study further indicated fat and protein content increased proportionally with milk yield.

The scientists also determined genetic improvements and changes in herd management improved in both the control and Posilac herds at the same rate of two percent each year from 1990 to 1998.

To qualify for the study, supplemented herds must have continuously used Posilac since June 1994 in at least 50 percent of the milking cows. The only requirement for the control group was to be a DHI test herd. No additional parameters were placed on the randomly selected herds, Bauman said.

McCoy Receives Director Training

DENVER, Colo – Bill McCoy, a broker and seedstock operator from Lancaster, PA , took part in a director training session designed to educate producers about their roles and responsibilities as new appointments to the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) board of directors

McCoy was appointed to the checkoff division of the NCBA board in February to represent the views of the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

McCoy, along with other industry leaders, participated in the March 11-12 director training in Denver to get a more complete understanding of NCBA, its operating structure, and its partner organizations

"It's important that NCBA directors fully understand the organization and its operating structure," said George Swan, 1999 NCBA president and host of the training session. "We are part of a complicated industry with a complex governing structure. If board members have a good understanding of how NCBA operates, they will be better able to represent and educate their constituents.

The NCBA director training session was held in conjunction with a training session for new appointments to the Cattlemen's Beef Board (CBB) - the group charged with overseeing the $1-per-head beef checkoff program. NCBA contracts with the Cattlemen's Beef Board to conduct checkoff programs on behalf of the industry.

"We hold our training sessions in cooperation with CBB, because it is also important that NCBA directors understand the operating procedures of our partner organizations," said Swan. "Directors need to be able to communicate about the value of the beef checkoff program and that we contract with the CBB on a cost-recovery basis - meaning that we do not profit from work conducted on behalf of the beef checkoff."

NCBA will next meet in Denver during the Cattle Industry Summer Conference, July 17-21.

ATTENTION EXCAVATORS
NEW CONCEPT REVEALED

ONE POWER SOURCE DOES IT ALL

CALL ROY SHERTZER AT 1 800-732-0017 TO GET ADDITIONAL INFORMATION & DISCUSS THE NO-RISK RENT PROGRAM

Excavators are discovering a better way to move dirt! You see the Case IH Steiger Quadrac isn t just for agriculture anymore More and more Steiger Quadtracs are pulling Reynolds scrapers and pans moving dirt for considerably less Best of all, the Steiger Quadtrac is exceptional when it comes to working in wet conditions See for yourself how using a Steiger Quadtrac can generate additional profits for you!

A TRUE STORY

Wilkinson Farms had been using Steiger trac tors in agriculture for several years Thinking that the Steiger would also be effective in construction applications, Wilkinson Farms formed Technivate, a constru ction company using Reynolds pans and scrapers with a cou ple of Steiger tractors The results have been phenominal At last count, Technovate operates a fleet of 13 Case IH Steiger tractors moving dirt with Reynolds pans

NO RISK! RENT BEFORE YOU LEASE OR BUY!

OPERATES IN WET CONDITIONS

Fast Food For Dairy Herds

Hanson Silo Company has combined the best of both worlds in the Mega-Trac unloader. The Mega-Trac unique dual auger machine with its two-motor system rips smoothly through frozen silage, and does not clog in summer haylage.

Up to three times more capacity than conventional silo unloaders. During recent winter testing the Mega-Trac delivered 2 tons of frozen haylage per revolution. Now on display at Show-Ease Stall.

Rural Economy

Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

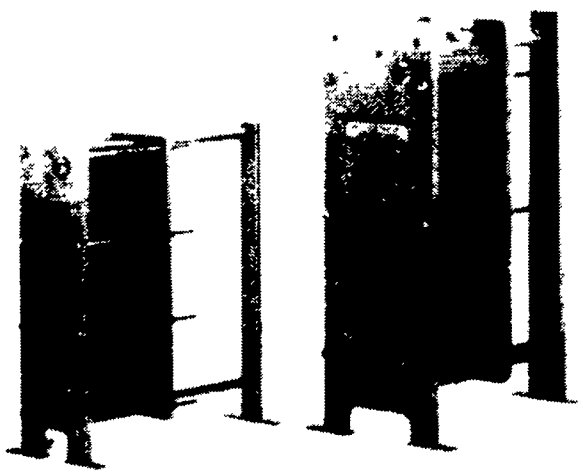
MUELLER® DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT



Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?
Summer heat will soon be here. Plan now with a Mueller pre-cooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

Attention
Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!
New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP

This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable. Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level.

GOLDEN MEAL 40

An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.
